Hard work = Success

Congratulations to all the students who have made the honor roll this year. Many students put forth the extra effort to excel in their classes and earn this honor. Several students were commended for maintaining a 4.0 grade point average while participating in a sport. Students who earned a 3.5 g.p.a. or better 2nd quarter, received tickets to a Reds game in the Spring. Good job, scholars!

Olympic Hopeful?

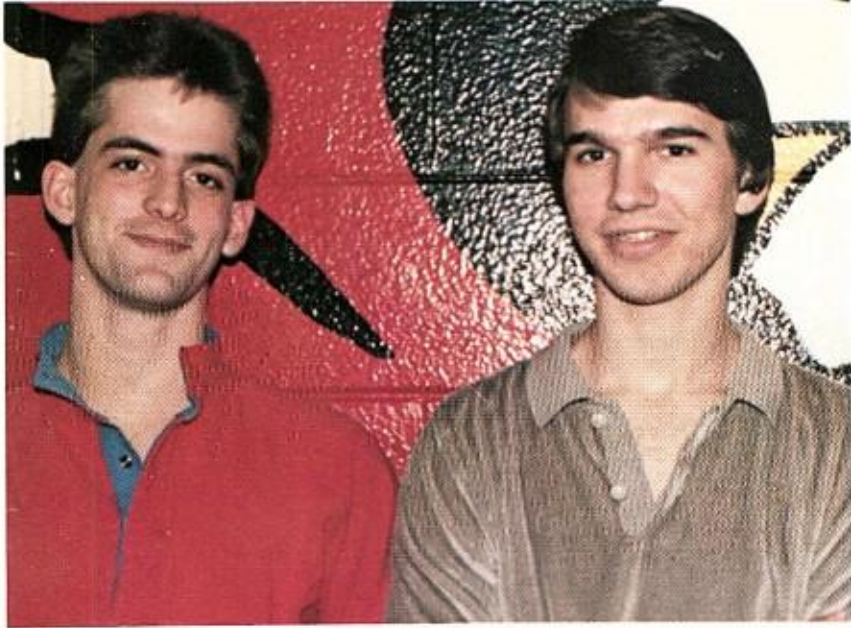

Although Colerain had no formal, organized gymnastics team, several students competed in the sport. One of these people was junior Nick Westermeyer, who competed at the State Competition Level this year. This was Nick's second year at State and he placed 21st out of 51 competitors. Keep an eye on this up and coming gymnast; you may just see him in '88.

Battle of the Languages

Foreign language week was filled with tidbits of great foreign music, food, and culture. All the languages—French, Spanish, and German had a day of their own to sport their favorite foreign t-shirts, buttons, and logos. The traditional volleyball game was hard fought but the Germans came out victorious, winning the award back from the Spanish. Thanks to all who participated.

MERIT POINTS

Colerain Senior High was recently notified by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation that ten Colerain Seniors were recognized as commended students in the 1987 Merit Scholarship Program. The students were among the more than 1 million who took the test in Oct. of 1985. Of that number, approximately 35,000 were being honored by the NMSC as commended students. The remaining 15,000 were semi-finalists. Both Tony Berlier and Dean Arriens were finalists.

Today's students, tomorrow's leaders.

ART WINNERS

Colerain once again won several honors in the District PTA Cultural Arts Exhibit held at Northgate Mall. Winners in literature: K. Dugan, M. Jacobs, C. Hulley. Photography: M. Flaxmayer, C. Hesse, A. Jauch, M. Honnert. Visual Arts: S. Betsch, R. Innis.

Council Members Recognized

The elite of the elite??

Throughout the year many Student Council Members have chaired various committees for different projects or dances. Several members were recognized by being "Student Council Members of the Month." Some of the students recognized were Karen Miller, Tina Burke, Beth Sammons, and Amy Greco. Congratulations to all who were honored!

A trophy well deserved!

We Beat Moeller

Although the season ended on a sour note, it hit a high point when the Cardinals triumphed over Moeller. The entire team worked together to make the game happen. The reward for the players efforts was to be chosen as Channel 9's "Team of the Week." At the end of the week during an assembly, team captains Vic Piper and Brian Bernhardt proudly accepted the trophy on behalf of the team. It was truly a game we won't forget.

EXAMS!!

During the school year 1986-87, the Northwest Local School Board adopted a new exam schedule. Instead of exams every quarter, exams were every semester. The seniors who maintained a "C" average in their classes were exempt from 2nd semester exams. The change was met with both approval and opposition from the students and faculty.

Colerain's Collage once again showed everyone just how good they really are. The group's schedule was almost entirely booked with performances in such places as downtown, Northgate, and even out of State. The group competed in the Delta Show Choir Invitational in Illinois, and was met by stiff competition. However, they performed in true fashion receiving both the Director's Award and the Most Outstanding Show Award. During competition in Piqua, Ohio, the group received 2nd runner-up. Currently Collage is looking forward to performing next year and competing once again.

Paula and Tricia share a laugh.

Drill Team Places 1st

Once again this year, outstanding performances, spirit, and great leadership led the Rythmettes to win first place at the Ross Invitational in Ross, Ohio. The group of girls perform at football games and during assemblies. The captain of the Rythmettes is Jeannie Davis along with First Lieutenant Tricia Wright and Second Lieutenant Paula Price. Congratulations and good luck next year.

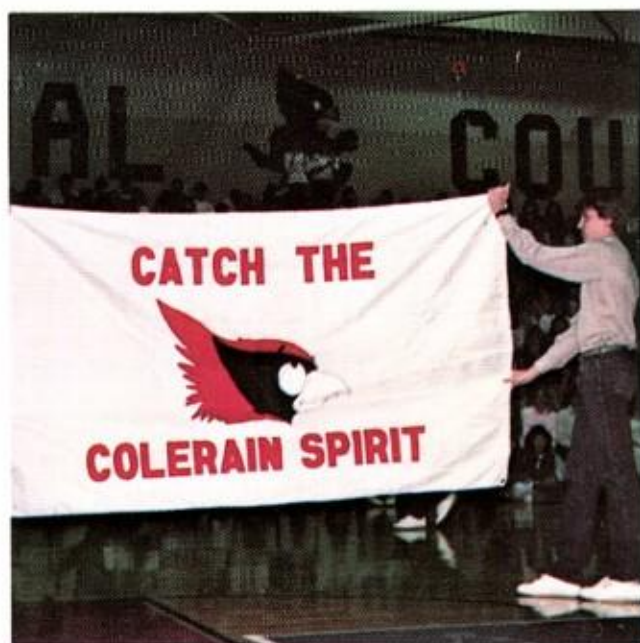

Parade Returns Once Again

The tradition from the past is back! For the first time in several years, the Football Homecoming game was marked by a parade beforehand. The beautifully dressed Homecoming Queen candidates rode in convertibles and t-tops for the occasion. Many different clubs and organizations entered banners for the banner competition before the game. Skies were clear and spirit was high, making the Football Homecoming Parade a smashing success!

Nancy and Tonya enjoy the attention.

Spirit Flies at New Height

The mighty Cardinal flies proudly.

The Senior Class of 1986 wished to present Colerain with a gift to remember them by. The idea of a flag was agreed upon and one created. The flag was presented by Kim Brown, the 1986 Senior class President, to Mr. Byrne and Eric Meyer, the Senior Class President of '87. It now flies proudly on our flagpole and shows the immense pride we have in our school.

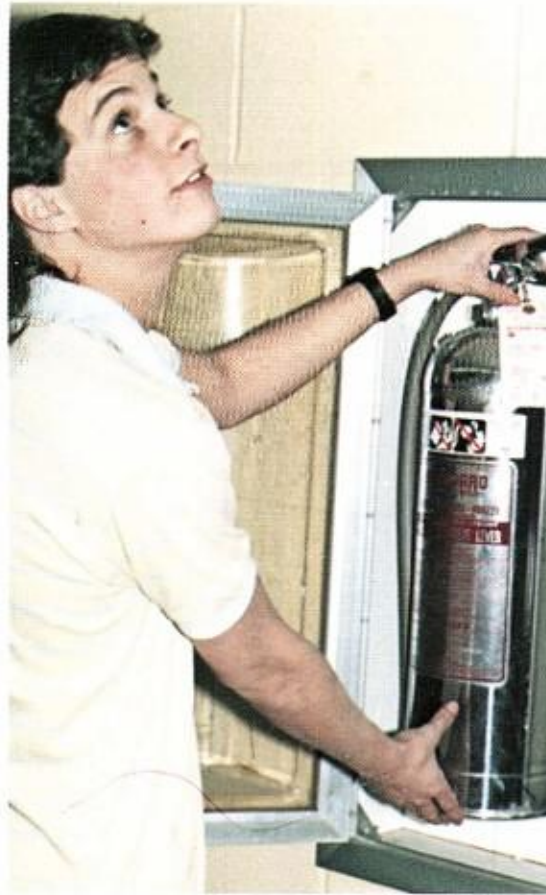

HALL OF FAME

With the "Hall of Fame" being introduced this year to Colerain for former students who achieved success but lacked recognition, we felt it was only fair to honor several present day students for their achievements as well. These awards have nothing whatsoever to do with the Senior Superlatives, so put your mind at ease . . . yes we fixed the awards. We all know the students worked hard for these prestigious honors, so congratulations!

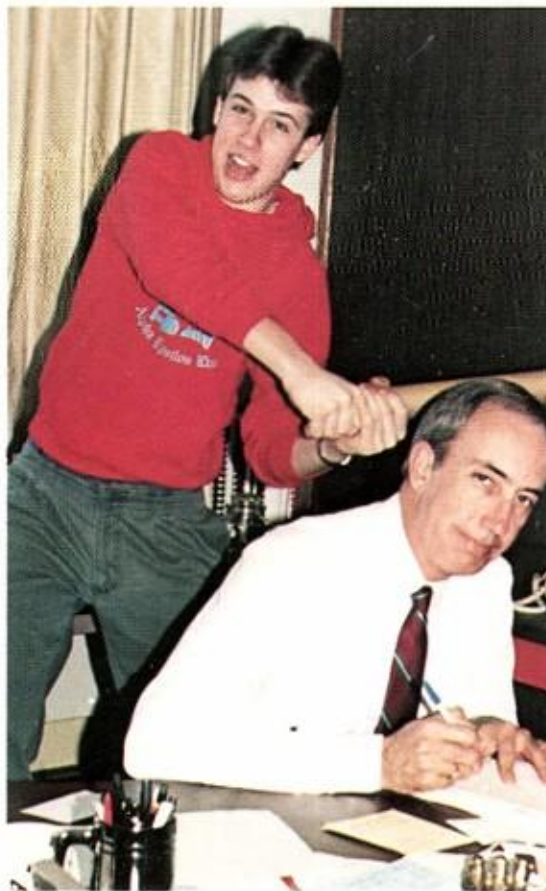

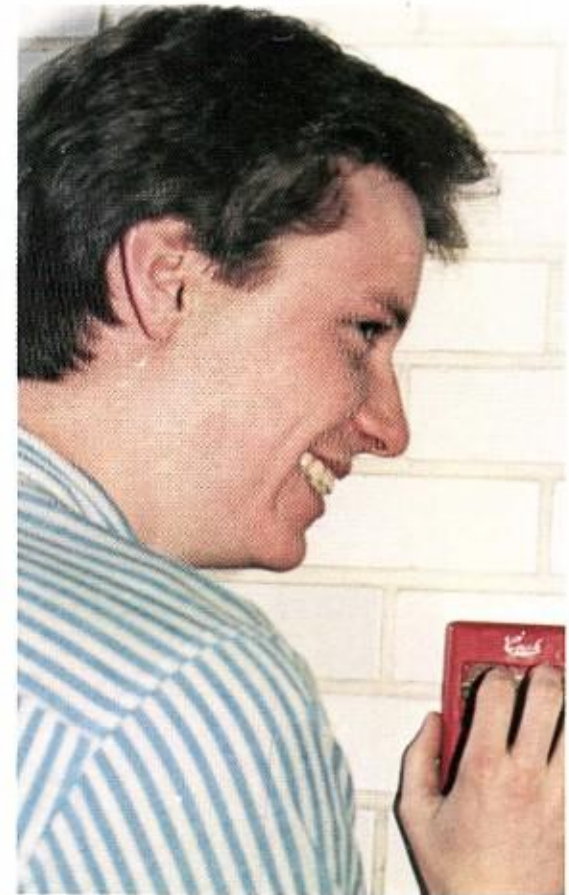

Tracy "the plate smasher" Sohngen receives an award for discus.

Lamar gets caught with his fingers in the goods.

Eric and Rich receive the "Fire Prevention and Awareness Award."

Tom receives the Administration Abuse Award.

John shows off his "National Geographic Boy of the Year" skills.

HALL OF FAME

I've heard of smoking in the boys room but this is ridiculous! These guys receive the "Central Hardware" Award for craftiness.

Julie and Patty venture into lands unknown. No Award given.

Tracy braves the "Danger Zone."

Pat "the pecker" sharpens his skills. Pat was given the "Legs" Award.

Chuck receives an award for advancements in brain surgery.

Spirit Week

During both the football and basketball season, a week was set apart to boost school spirit. Activities such as the "Pie-in-the-Face" Contest, the class spirit chain, and races between the classes got students involved and excited about the upcoming game. The cheerleaders are to be commended for their display of spirit, enthusiasm, and good sportsmanship.

Seniors Take Day At Miami and U.C.

Seniors interested in attending college, were given the opportunity to visit either the University of Cincinnati or Miami University in Oxford. The students were informed about admission requirements, tuition, financial aid, and dorm life. Many seniors plan to attend one or the other of the two schools, so the field trip was very informative and, best of all, a good time.

Hey look, guys, it's a camera!

Fashions Unlimited

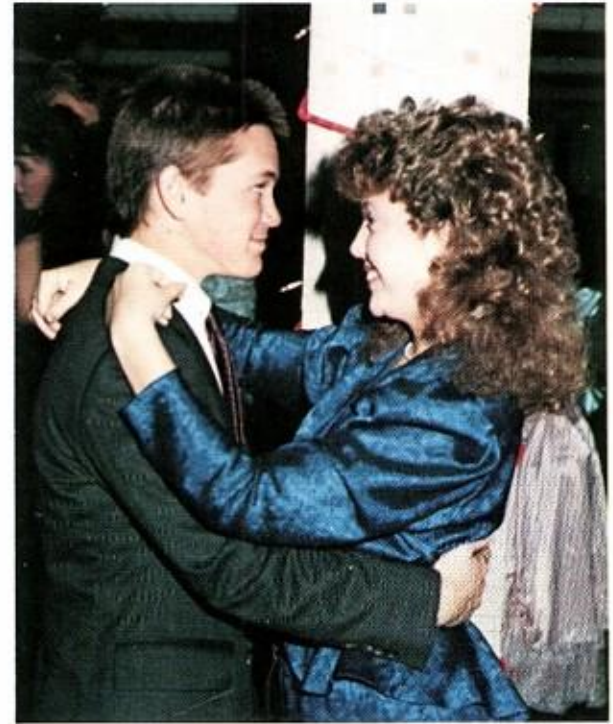

The annual Black Culture Club Fashion Show had a new twist this year . . . a dance afterward! Many of the club members modeled new and outrageous fashions obtained from local clothing stores. The show was choreographed with perfection and everyone contributed to its success. The dance following the show was enjoyed by many of the guests.

Footloose

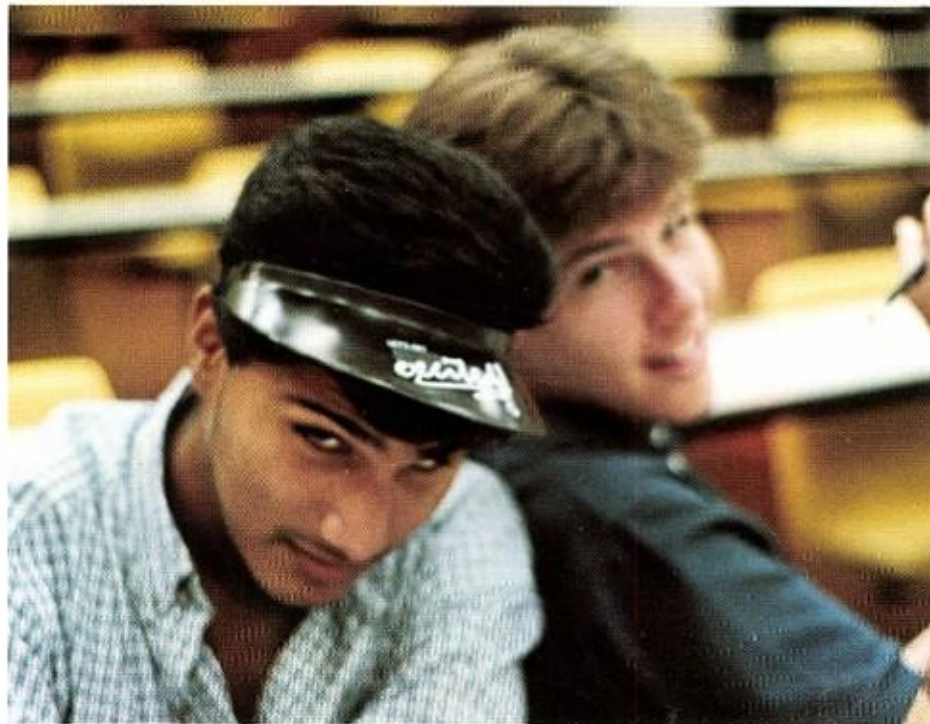

Colerain's cafeteria has played host to several different dances this year. Besides the annual Homecoming Dances, there was the Christmas Dance, the Black Culture Club Dance, and everyone's favorite—the Hawaiian Dance! Each dance saw a splendidly decorated dance floor and a hip, upbeat D.J. to keep everyone footloose! The students eagerly await the next social gala here at old Colerain High.

Band Reveals True Self!

FROM THE EDITOR

Well, this is it folks—my year's worth of work bound up in a nice tidy book with a little help from my staff. Actually it was a lot of help from my staff! When designing the opening section of the book, I was left with the problem of having an empty page. We decided to have a page with a few thoughts from the editor. These thoughts were to be brief, concise and mean a whole heck of a lot! If you believe I can say anything important—you're CRAZY! My senior year has been the best of my daze in high school. Personally I'm glad it's over.

Being the Yearbook Editor has had its ups and downs, but it's been very worthwhile. I'd like to take this time right now to thank Ms. Murray for all the help and patience over the past three years. She has given many hours of her time and talent unselfishly toward producing a quality yearbook. To the entire yearbook staff: I wish you all well and to next year's staff a lot of luck!

To all my fellow SENIORS, may you all live long and prosper. I hope you all follow your dreams and achieve your goals and may all your clouds have silver linings. To tell you the truth, I was just grabbing for anything. What I'm really trying to say is I really don't care what the heck you guys and girls do after high school! I hope I never see you people again! But if you happen to come into a lot of money, my address is printed in the back of the book. As a parting thought: REMEMBER, IT JUST DOESN'T MATTER!!!

Sincerely,

Thomas M. Wagner

ALIVE WITH SPIRIT

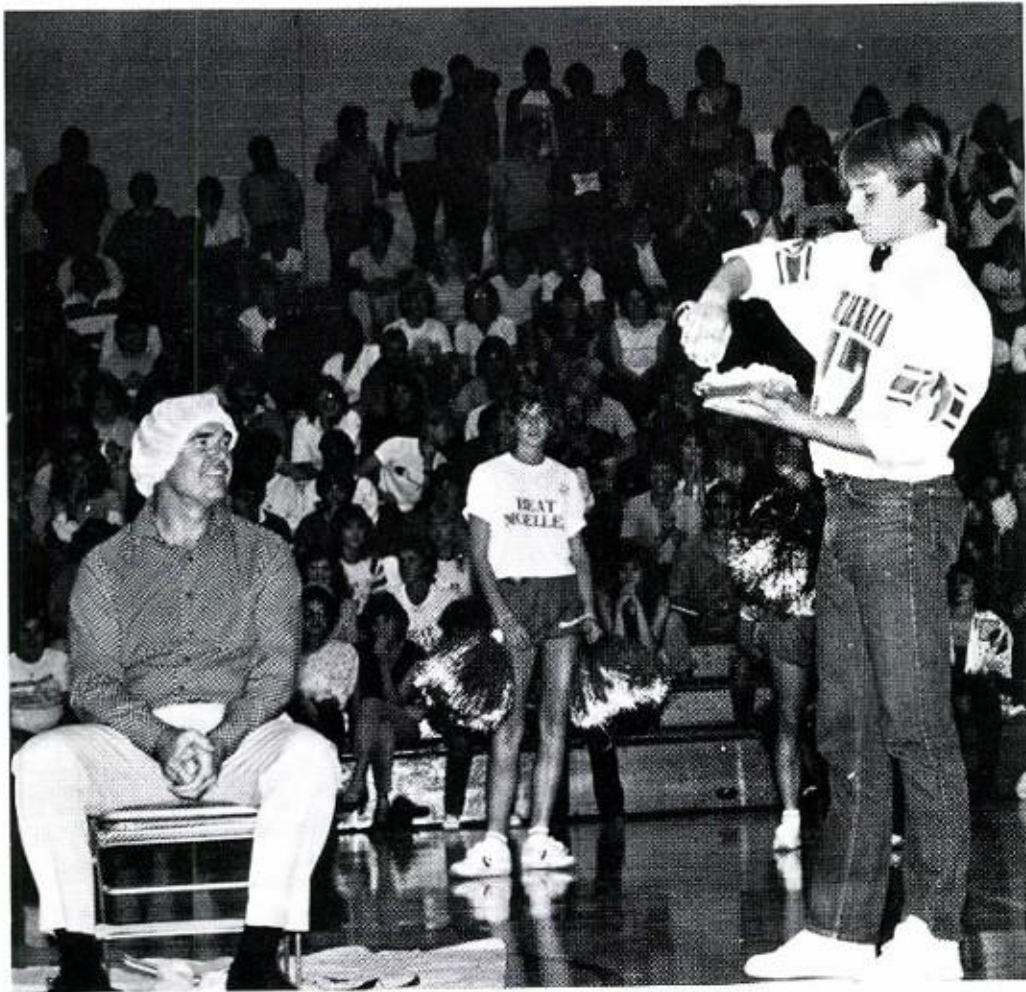

Spirit was kept at an all-time high this year by the enthusiasm shown by the cheerleaders and students. The assemblies were full of eye-catching events such as the Pie-in-the-Face contest, the Ugly Man contest, and the races between the classes. Everyone got involved by wearing spirit buttons and red and white. The victory in football over Moeller set the level of excitement for the rest of the year. Barney the Bird made many appearances during the year at football and basketball games, assemblies, and parades. The spirit this year flew higher than the flag given by the class of '86 to Colerain.

"Isn't that special?"

It speaks for itself.

Melodies abounded in the Still of the Night on September 12. The dancers were bombarded by flashes from Great Balls of Fire.

Fashions included Chantilly Lace, Blue Suede Shoes, Blue Velvet, and Bobby Sox to Stockings. Calendar Girls like Peggie Sue, Venus, Diana, and Patricia grabbed their Teddy Bears and asked them, "Do You Want to Dance?" When their Puppy Love answered "YaYa," the Shout of Oh Boy! could be heard A Thousand Miles Away.

Rolling Out The Red Carpet

Lights, cameras, and action highlighted the many events that happened on that sunny Saturday in October. The day began early for the banner carriers, the candidates, and the drivers. Parading onto the field, the queen candidates were chauffeured in by a grand show of convertibles. The long awaited battle between Oak Hills and Colerain was to follow this tremendous display.

As the game commenced, the Cards showed their dominance, and went into the locker room with a lead, yet they failed to keep this lead, and the game ended with a loss. During half-time, a glamorous array of beauty and spirit were portrayed as Homecoming Chairwoman, Tonya Shah, escorted by Mark Schell, crowned Karen Miller as Homecoming Queen. The enduring glamour of Homecoming was rolled up that night at the dance as the red and white lights dimmed a final tune.

Anne Frank

"The Diary of Anne Frank" was brought to life this fall by the Drama Club and Thespian Troop 1093. In their portrayal of Anne's confinement, the cast displayed the happiness, fear, and love that the secluded family and friends experienced. Ten very talented cast members and the crews worked diligently to present an accurate portrayal of Anne's life. They met with people who had survived the trauma and persecution directed against Jews in areas controlled by the Nazis, and spent many hours constructing a simulation of the notorious attic. Having learned much about the inner strength of people, the cast was able to put on a moving performance.

Anne's story is more than a tribute to a brave girl, but a reminder that the effects of the holocaust are still apparent and nothing like it must ever happen again.

The cast of Anne Frank

Break A Leg

Without any doubt Drama Club and Thespian Troop 1093 consummately displayed another sensational winter production. The two-act comedy, Break A Leg, involved the talents of 22 actors and actresses, many of whom were giving their first performances on Colerain's stage.

Break A Leg proposed the but true vision of a director's headache on the last night of dress rehearsal. It happens during the practice of any production: the fallen scenery, the forgotten lines, and the unfortunate happenings. Eventually, as was seen in Break A Leg, the problems bring the temper of the director to a boil, causing her to have lost brain cells and displeasing dreams. In Break A Leg, these nightmares included complete contortions and destruction of the brilliant works of Shakespeare. Although perceived as hilarious, the problems of dress rehearsal are seldom as funny as was displayed in Break A Leg.

Entering the realm of comedy was a different experience for many of the club members; however, Break A Leg proved to be a success. Everyone enjoyed the quality of humor expressed upon the glittering stage.

Mark Antony and his "honorable" fan club.

The Sound of Music

The hills, halls and walls of Colerain High were filled with the sound of music when Drama Club and Thespian Troupe 1093 presented the "Sound of Music" April 31st, May 1st, and May 2nd. The auditorium was transformed into scenery such as the Alps, the Von Trapp home, and a nunnery. Portraying the lead roles were Tom Minor as Captain Von Trapp and Becky Browning as Maria, while the rest of the cast used their superior vocal and acting talents to make the production complete. A magnificent performance by the orchestra gave the audience the feel of being in Austria and the Swiss Alps. The crew did a splendid job on the sets and the technical end of the play. Congratulations to everyone involved. It was an award winning performance.

Christmas Time

In restless anticipation of winter break, many students joyously entered the school doors for one last time in 1986. The reason—it was time for the Christmas Dance to Begin!

Although there wasn't any snow outside, the pajama clad students sprinkled snow-like confetti in each others' hair. Outfits ranged from the slightly hum-drum flannel P.J.'s with feet and drop seats to the more traditional T-shirts and boxers! To encourage spirit between the classes, there was a "Ho! Ho!" contest that helped everyone get into a festive holiday mood. A jolly time was had by all. Dancing under larger than life snowflakes and a few sprigs of mistletoe created a dream-like ending to the evening gala. Everyone left the dance that night with a certain sparkle in their eyes.

Snowflakes keep falling on my head.

From Over There

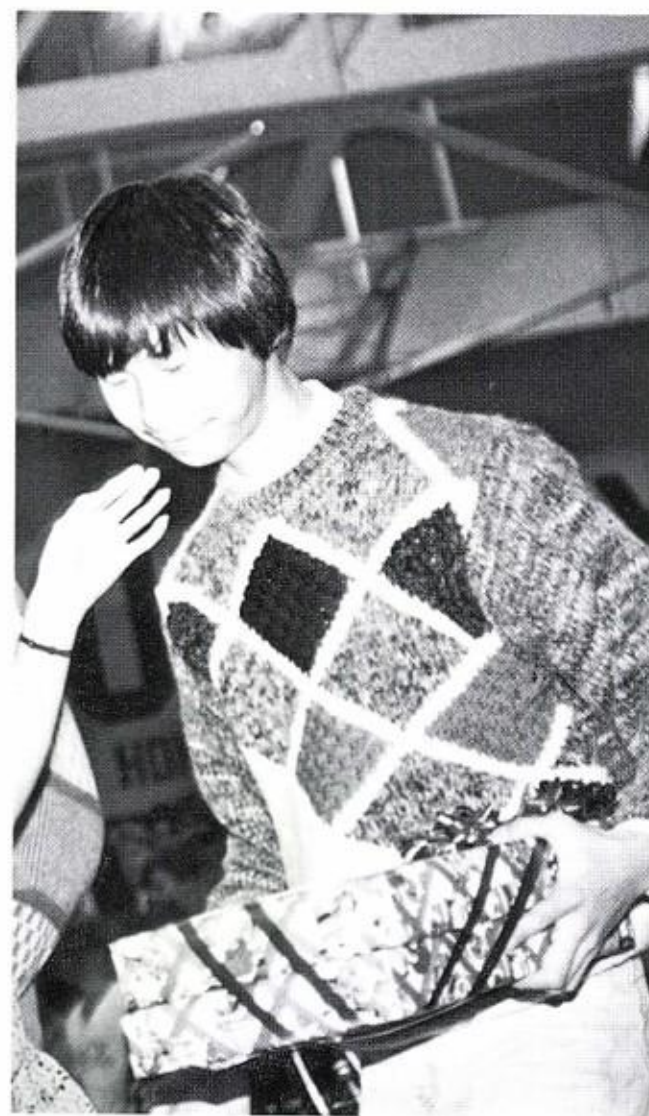

Traveling to distant lands, sampling new foods, trying to understand what people were saying, and fitting in at the same time were among the experiences shared by our two foreign exchange students, Sing Wing Poon and Gustavo Godoy.

Sing Wing got into the swing of things from the first day of school. Attacking his studies with dictionary in hand, it was soon apparent to teachers and students alike that no task was too great for the young man from Hong Kong. A superior student, Sing Wing brought honors to himself and Colerain as he took top honors at the science fairs at C.H.S. and at Miami U. Active in both band and orchestra, Sing Wing lent his talent on the flute to the annual musical. Intent on being fully involved, Sing Wing was spotted dancing the night away at homecoming and having a blast at Winterfest. As his senior year came to a close and he made plans for college, everyone who was touched by his warm smile, kind and inquisitive manner, and outstanding character, agreed that we were the ones who had gained the most from his presence.

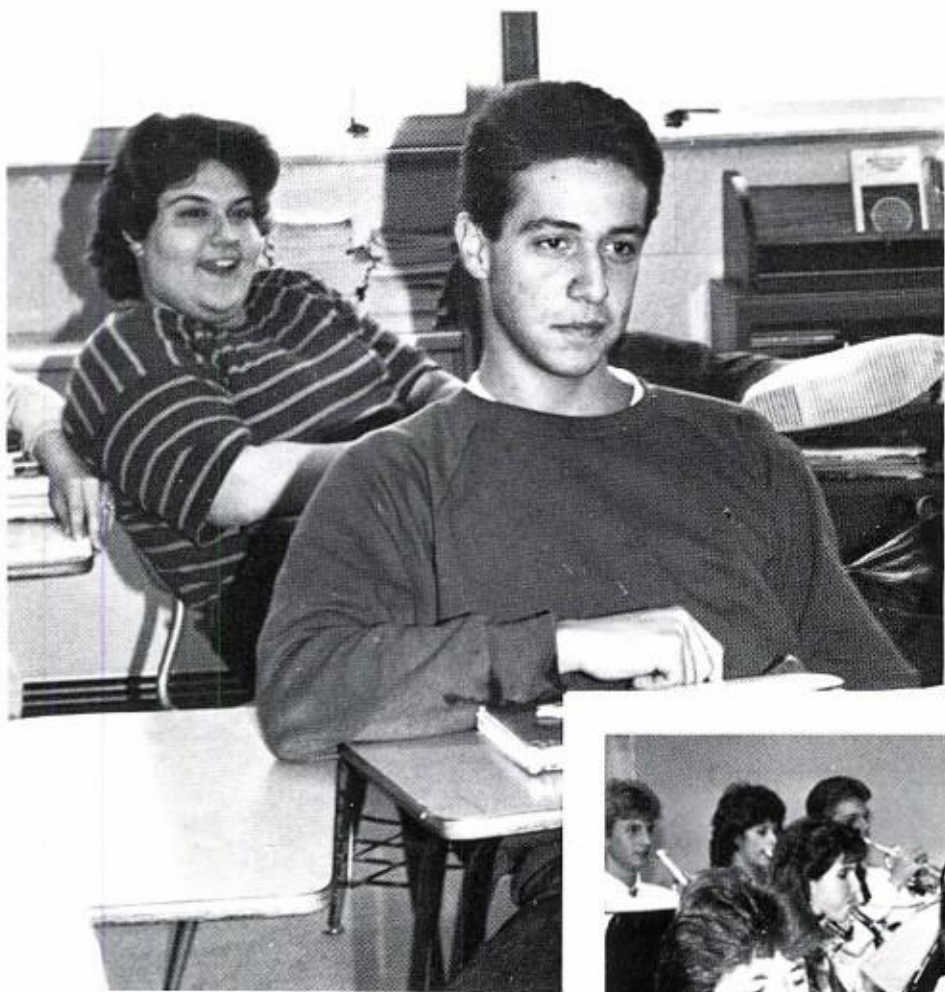

While Sing Wing was present for the entire year, Gustavo arrived in time for the second semester. It wasn't long however, before he, too, endeared himself to the students (girls especially were quick to note the attractive young man with the great smile). A native of Sao Paulo, Brazil, Gustavo had an additional adjustment to make, as the seasons were the reverse of what he would expect at home. The shy junior soon warmed up to Cincinnati's strange weather as well as to the people. Spaghetti was a taste treat for him and he looked forward to some of his favorite activities, including soccer, volleyball, and art class.

Both young men accepted a challenge and an opportunity that most would hesitate to attempt. Leaving family and friends, they came to Colerain; they learned; and they conquered our hearts. Welcome to America, Sing Wing and Gustavo—Now and always!

The 1987 Basketball Homecoming King Candidates

The Magic Moment

Abracadabra! Magic filled the air as the 1987 Basketball Homecoming took place. The presentation of the King and Queen candidates at halftime where senior class candidate, Kim Kapperman was chosen as Queen, and Steve Kipp, the C-Club candidate, as King, was capped by a victory over Aiken. Following the game, the magical spell held as students, dressed in their finest, took to the transformed wonderland of what had been the cafeteria. Entertainment fit the occasion as the magician gave a surprise performance of tricks designed to deceive the eye. As the evening drew to a close, happy couples agreed the memories would not vanish.

Beach Bash

It was a hula-va party as Student Council sponsored its annual Beach Bash. Students, adorned with wacky flowered shirts and shorts of all kinds, were jamming to surfin' tunes. Grass skirts and lifeguard whistles were optional accessories to flaunt while competing in the outrageous Hula and Limbo contests. The competitions sparked the already electric, spirited atmosphere. Many beach-goers shed their shoes and hot-footed it to rockin' tunes such as California Girls and Louie, Louie. Colorful leis were sold at the door as students were admitted to party in an aura of palm trees and graffiti covered walls. The only Beachin' things missing were the sun and the sand, but this dance was a wild success without them.

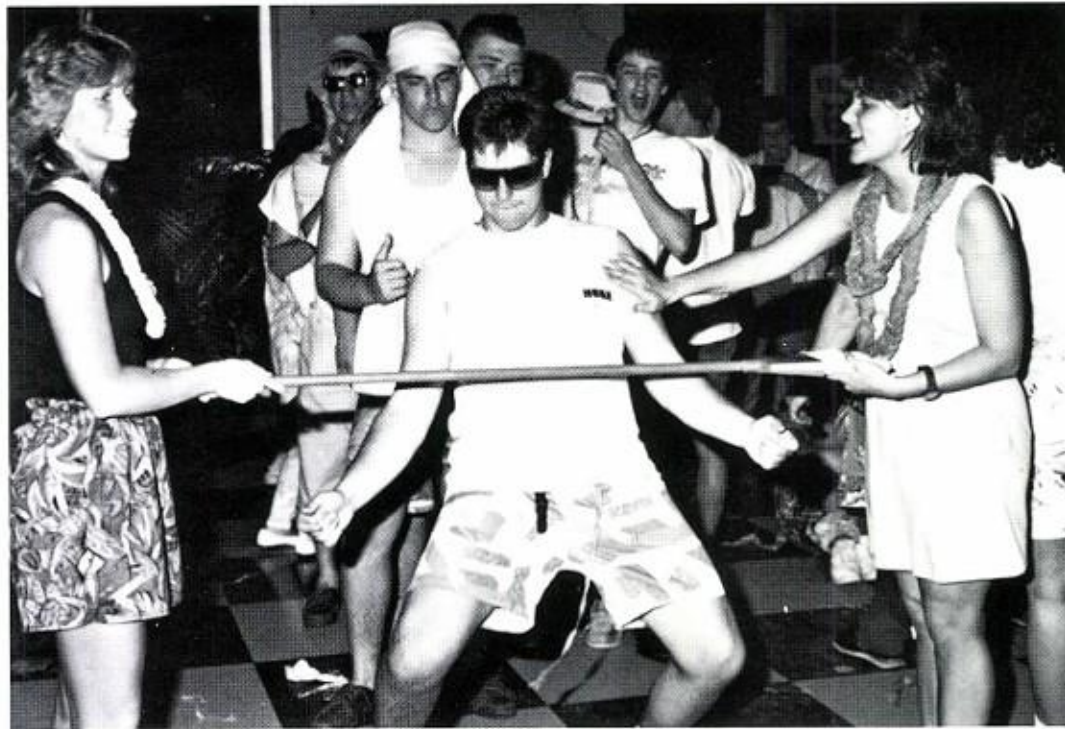

ALOHA!

Ohh! Check them out! Wait, what about him?
Aloha! Welcome to the Beach Bash!

Experimenting Leaders

Something for almost everyone could have been the Science Department's theme for the year. Under the leadership of Mr. Sturgeon, the faculty members urged students to accept new challenges, and supervised several out-of-class activities. Chief among these were the annual Science Fair, and the Camp Joy counseling experience. Originality, understanding of the scientific process, and effort, were all elements judges looked for in the many entries for the fair. Organized by Mrs. Ennis, the fair displayed student work in areas ranging from behavior to physics, from geology to computers. Individual winners included Sing Wing Poon, Melissa Kahsar, John Huss, Becky Friesen, Tapan Metha, and George Menyhert. While the Science Fair stressed individual work, leading groups of sixth grade students was the task of Camp Joy counselors. While guiding the youngsters in nature studies, the counselors found their leadership abilities challenged. With assistance from Mrs. Martino, the counselors, chosen on the basis of interest and responsibility, helped with plant identification, went on nature hikes, and devised entertainment for their charges, while keeping track of rambunctious individuals. The extras provided by the Science Department helped students to expand their knowledge and apply it to real-life challenges.

Language lives at Colerain! Putting classroom learning to use was one of the goals of the foreign language department. In addition to in-class activities where students learned a language and something about the culture, the various language classes took part in several joint activities.

Foreign language week was one of the highlighted features of the school year. French, German, and Spanish students participated in trivia and greeting contests, while the entire school traveled to class with "tunes in different tongues."

Capping the week's activities was the ever popular volleyball contest, won by the German team which proved its dominance on the court.

Individual language clubs and honor societies were extensions of the classroom. French Club visited the Maisonette, Grand Finale, and viewed a French film. German Club sponsored two hayrides and a dinner at the Black Forest. They also participated in a German Day at U.C. Spanish Club helped to broaden horizons by teaching Spanish to kindergarten students. The many activities revolving around the foreign language department provided a multi-cultural experience that was educational and entertaining.

Testing 1, 2, 3 . . .

"What's the score?" didn't always mean points scored in an athletic contest. Mental contests and the challenge of tests confronted students as well. While typical classroom tests elicited groans of anguish, students also submitted themselves to a battery of voluntary tests ranging from medical tests for athletes to aptitude and achievement tests for vocational and academic endeavors.

The PSAT/NMSQT, SAT, and ACT tests were among the tests taken by many college bound students. For each of these, students were required to respond to questions in math, English, science, and social studies. Those interested in military careers had the opportunity to take the ASVAB tests which indicated both academic and mechanical aptitude and achievement.

Advanced Placement tests in history, calculus, chemistry, foreign languages, English, and art were administered in May to students attempting to get a head start in college credit.

Among the high scorers on all of the tests, were a large number of National Honor Society students. Membership in this elite society, however, was not based on grades and test scores alone. Leadership, service, and character were also important qualities. Outstanding in all areas, these students were proof that Colerain students knew the score.

Colerain's Literary Successes

With layouts, pages, and articles due, many of Colerain's writers had important work to do. Many, however, did not realize they were being watched as they busily typed. Many were observed and selected to be in an organization called the Quill and Scroll. Purely an honorary organization, Quill and Scroll, served to honor the outstanding writing abilities of students.

A Head-Start At Open-House

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" That's a question all children have been asked from the day they could talk. Rather than allow Colerain graduates to enter the "real" world unprepared for an answer, the counseling department hosted several Open Houses to provide planning information for students and their families. Career and education options were presented along with assistance in mapping out an appropriate learning program best suited to individual needs. College Night was the first opportunity many college bound students had to get a closer look at the many institutions to which they might apply. Over 70 reprerepresentatives from local, state, and out-of-state colleges and universities were on hand to answer questions about entrance requirements, areas of study offered at their school, and various forms of financial assistance available. Sophomores with no immediate plans for college who, nevertheless, wanted to be prepared for a full-time job upon completion of high school, had the opportunity to attend Vocational Open House. There they heard from various program directors and students about the many areas of study available. Demonstrations were a key part of the presentation as current vocational students displayed the skills and training that they had already learned. Both programs gave students a chance to begin mapping their career plans. Those who participated in the programs felt they now had a head start on the future.

Working Together

Go-fers, file message-bearers, and all-around handy people found an outlet for their energy by serving as aides for teachers, secretaries, and counselors. Students must have had an open period (study hall) to qualify for a position, but they also had to show themselves to be responsible and useful. In the process of helping the school run more efficiently, the aides learned more than the location of various rooms. Basic office procedures, such as answering phones and filing, were among the learning experiences encountered. Working

The Competitive Spirit!

The challenges of competitions made use of the energy of students. Several competitions occurred this year in which participating students showed great spirit and dedication through their work.

One of the unique past events was the P.T.A. cultural arts fair. The creativity of our artists was put on display. Some of Colerain's award winners included Kerry Dugan, Amy Jauch, Michelle Jacobs and Mark Flaxmayer.

Another competition put students on trial—a Mock Trial. After a court case was drawn up, Colerain's team divided into a defense team and a prosecuting team. Taking turns in court against other schools, no objections could be held against the hard work of these talented Colerain students.

A writing contest was promoted by The Daughters of the American Revolution. It offered a great opportunity for Jacque Tran, whose essay was chosen. She was flown to Pennsylvania for a weekend so that she was able to interact and share ideas with other winners of the Valley Forge Competition. Congratulations to all with competitive spirit!

Developing skills and mastering concepts necessary for the machine tool industry were among the tasks for Machine Trades students. Technical know-how was a must as students applied their own hand tools. Class and community projects were also incorporated into the program.

Through both programs, mechanical aptitudes were developed, and those who took advantage of the offerings found they could tinker themselves into a rewarding field.

Mr. Yetzer and Mr. Davis were devoted to teaching these students the necessary skills for design. The program also stressed Computer Aid Design, presenting the students with the growing uses of the computer in drafting.

Both of these programs offered students an entertaining career in design and a fun start for the future.

Co-Op: Mutual Benefits

Vocational programs prepared students for a career immediately after graduation. Teaching procedures were as varied as the programs offered, but one unique feature that all of the vocational programs shared was cooperative education.

Cooperative education allowed the students to get on-the-job training while they were still in school. Valuable experience was provided because the students became familiar with the job before they graduated and entered the job field. These students attended both related and laboratory classes during their junior and the beginning of their senior year. In class, students were taught the correct procedures for applying for chosen careers. They were taught how to make resumes and how to act during an interview. The students then applied to certain businesses with the aid of their instructors. Once hired, they would leave school after their regular and related classes. The on-the-job training replaced the laboratory class.

Instead, students gained valuable experience in the laboratory of the real working world. With cooperative education, businesses also benefitted, and many were so pleased with the students' work that full-time positions upon graduation were offered to the trainees. The school and businesses, through the co-op program, proved to be a mutual benefit arrangement.

Cooperative Office Education sought to place senior students in office positions that same year. An introduction to word processing was combined with practice in typing and calculating skills.

Challenging students to complete their high school education was the task of the Occupational Work Education course. In addition to fulfilling basic graduation requirements, students were given the opportunity to earn money and gain work experience through a job placement program. Support counseling and encouragement were provided by both the instructors and the employers.

A Way to SCORE

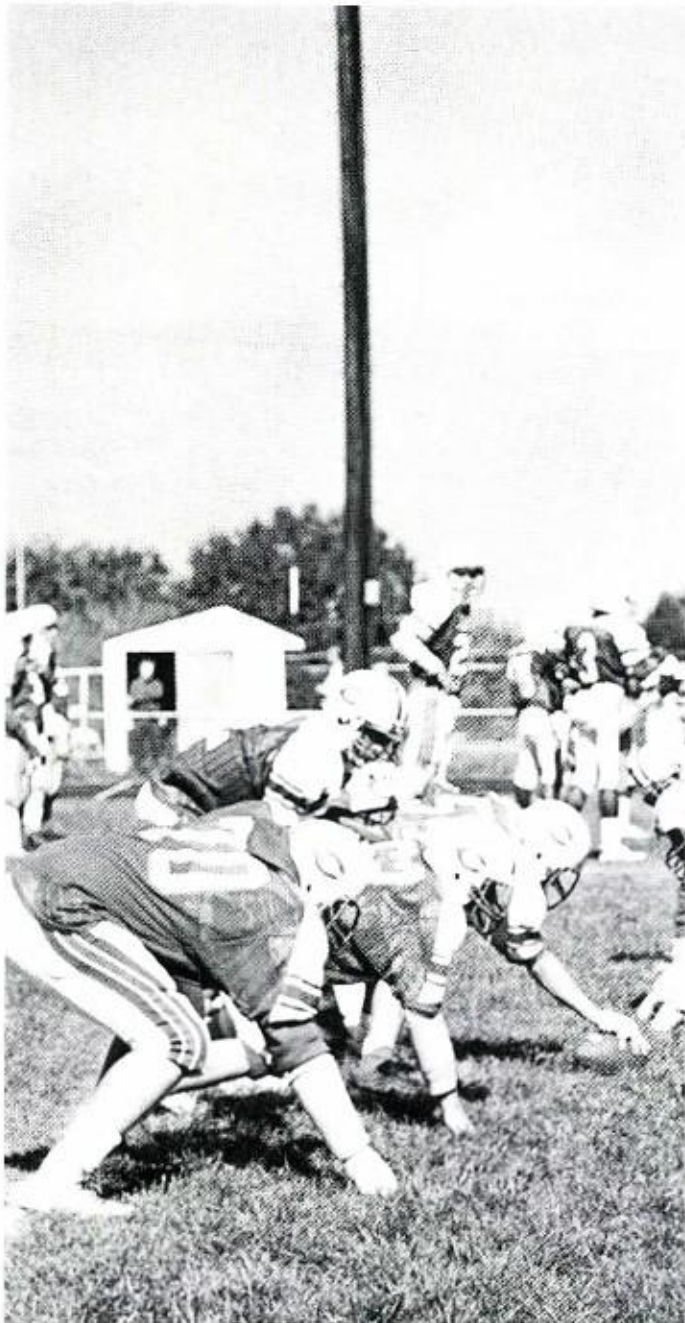

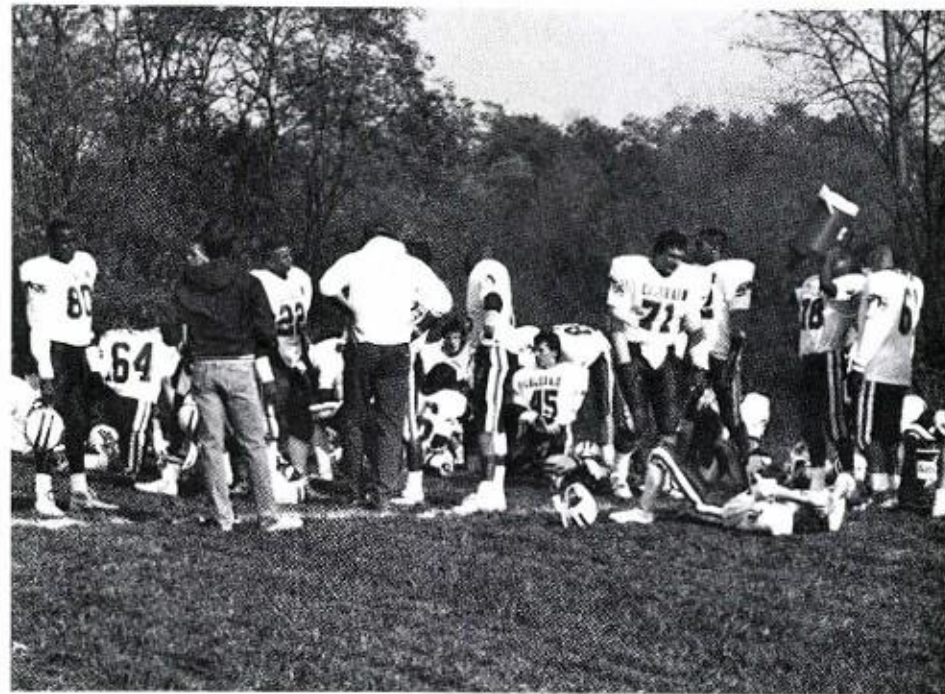

As the referee signaled another Colerain touchdown, first year head coach Don Colussi congratulated his offensive team as they made their way to the sideline. Action packed back-to-back victories over top-ranked Moeller and Middletown created great enthusiasm and helped boost the team's ranking. Wide receiver John Chappell led with 41 receptions and was selected for first team all city. Blocked extra points and crunching tackles were the specialty of the strong defense, which was fired by Jim Henderson, who surpassed all in blocked extra points, and Wendell Campbell named the defensive tackle of the year. While there were some setbacks, the winning season proved the Cardinals knew the way to score.

On Their Way

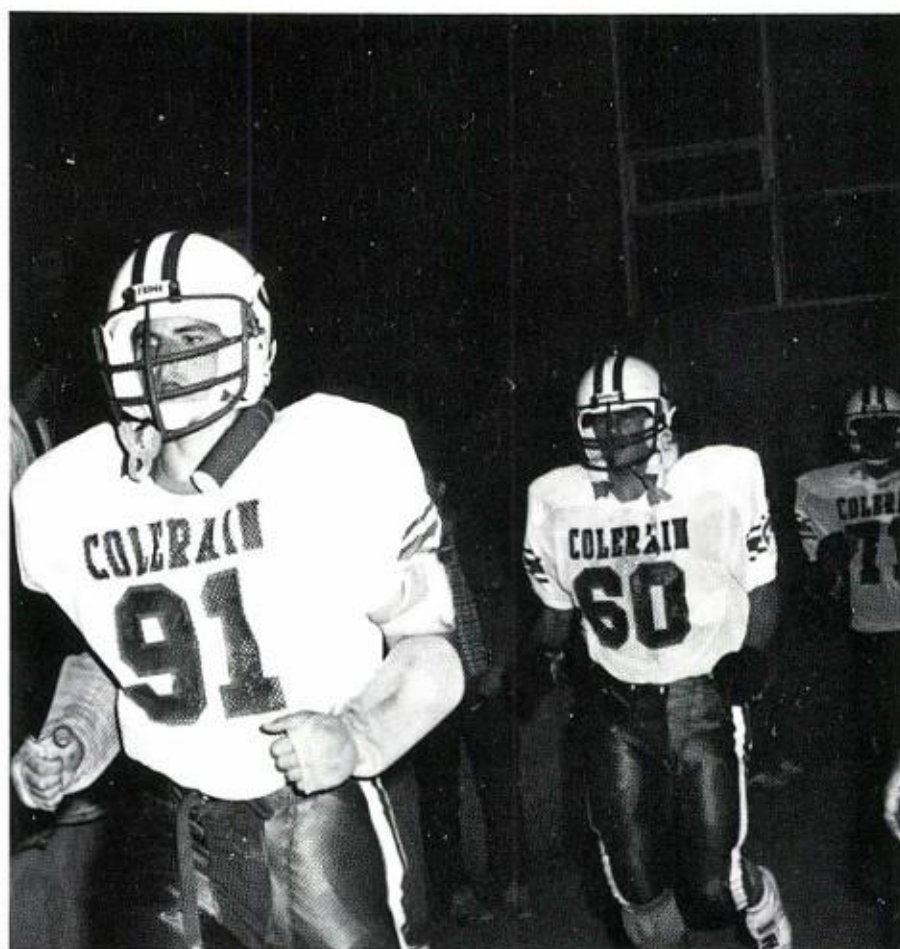

Under superb guidance from the excellent coaching of Farmer², the Colerain Junior Varsity football team ended their season with a winning record of 5-3. The offensive team, led by the arm of Steve Rogers and running abilities of Derrick Hollands, scored an unprecedented season high of 150 points. To defend and secure their victories, the young defense, under the leadership of Troy Boner, blocked, sacked and intercepted their opponents. With a tough season reaching a successful conclusion, many players were on their way to the varsity squad and new fields to conquer.

Falling victim to the loss of many starting players, the girls' soccer team spent the season rebuilding and setting new goals for its many first year players. Constant practice and determination enabled the girls to sharpen their skills, and helped them to win some surprising victories over more seasoned teams such as Harrison and Western Hills. The year also marked the first appearance of freshman girls who were allowed to try out and participate on the team, thereby helping the junior varsity team conclude with a winning record.

Coaching Teachers

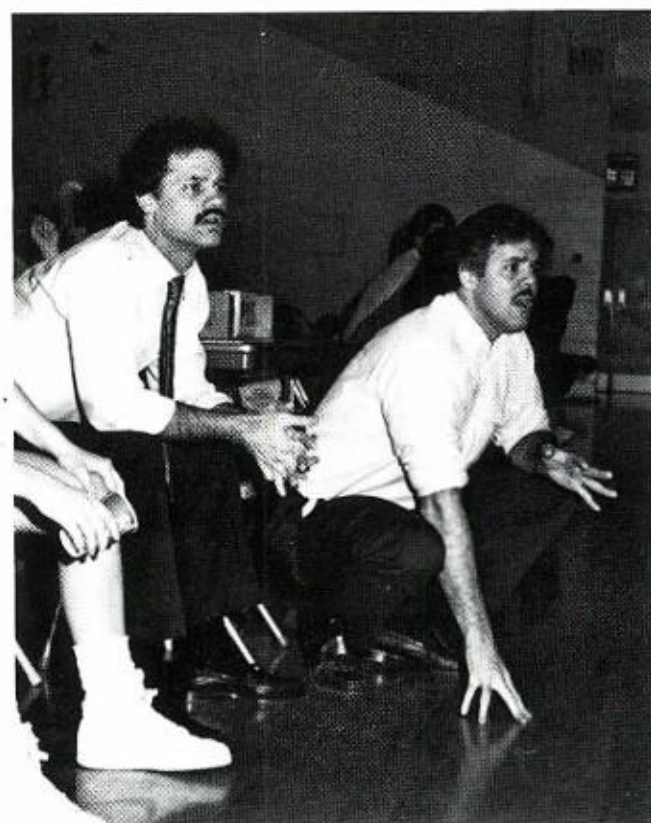

Teachers as coaches did double-duty as instructors. Lesson plans became game plans and strategies; teaching materials included sports paraphernalia; methods involved conditioning sessions and practice, practice, practice; and, inherent in all, was discipline. Building and motivating successful teams, the coaches used all of their teaching skills.

Success on the playing field was matched by success in the class, as grade requirements toughened. Here the coaches as teachers were most valuable. Representing all departments, the coaches kept track of the academic progress of their athletes and urged them to do their best in all areas of endeavor. Determined and dedicated—Colerain's teacher-coaches of the year!

Hooping it Up

Flying high, the enduring Cardinal cagers started the season off with a number of surprising victories. Under captains Mel Astin, Keith Aker, and Brian Peters, the team had two major upsets over number eight ranked Lakota (73-69) in double overtime and, later in the season, they dominated a strong number seven ranked Turpin in overtime, winning 73-62. Tim Gehner was elected to the first team all-MCC. Second team honors were given to Brian Peters, Scott Murphy, Mike Cobb, and Robert Cummings. Although the overall record of 6-14 was a disappointment, the high points provided plenty of "hoopla" for sports enthusiasts.

Senior leadership, and all-around good play, helped the Lady Cards improve their season to a 9-12 record, as fans witnessed key plays by Chris Long and Natalie Clippard, who averaged above 10 points a game, and skilled ball handling by Rhonda Hambrick. Inside scoring and rebounding by Clippard, and jump shooting by Long, coupled with assists from Amy Ott, Cathy Hursong, Susan Hunt, Karen Huselton, and Rhonda Hambrick, brought the team some exciting wins, such as a one point victory over a fine Harrison team in double overtime!

Two to Get Ready

Double doses of experience were gained as the JV boys and girls basketball teams completed the season with an overall 8-12 record, but the statistics couldn't reveal the full story of developing talent. For the girls, juniors Lisa Meyer, Lisa Mullis, Karen Woodwell, and Missy Weingartner led the way, with Meyer being the most consistent rebounder and Weingartner the best scorer. Honors for being the most improved player went out to Kris Scholz. Exciting wins over number one St. Xavier and number two Oak Hills signaled great potential for the boys' team. Jeff Schultess, Steve Rogers, Paul Karcher, and Jeff Hail were major contributors to the team's efforts. By season's end it was obvious that both JV teams were more than ready for bigger challenges in the coming year.

Fall Guys Finish With Flourish

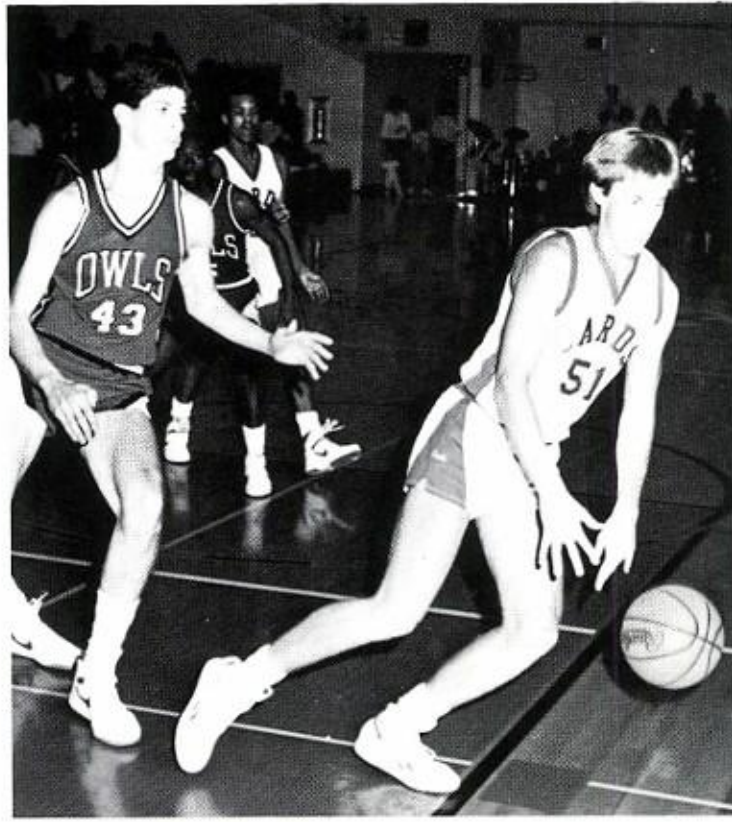

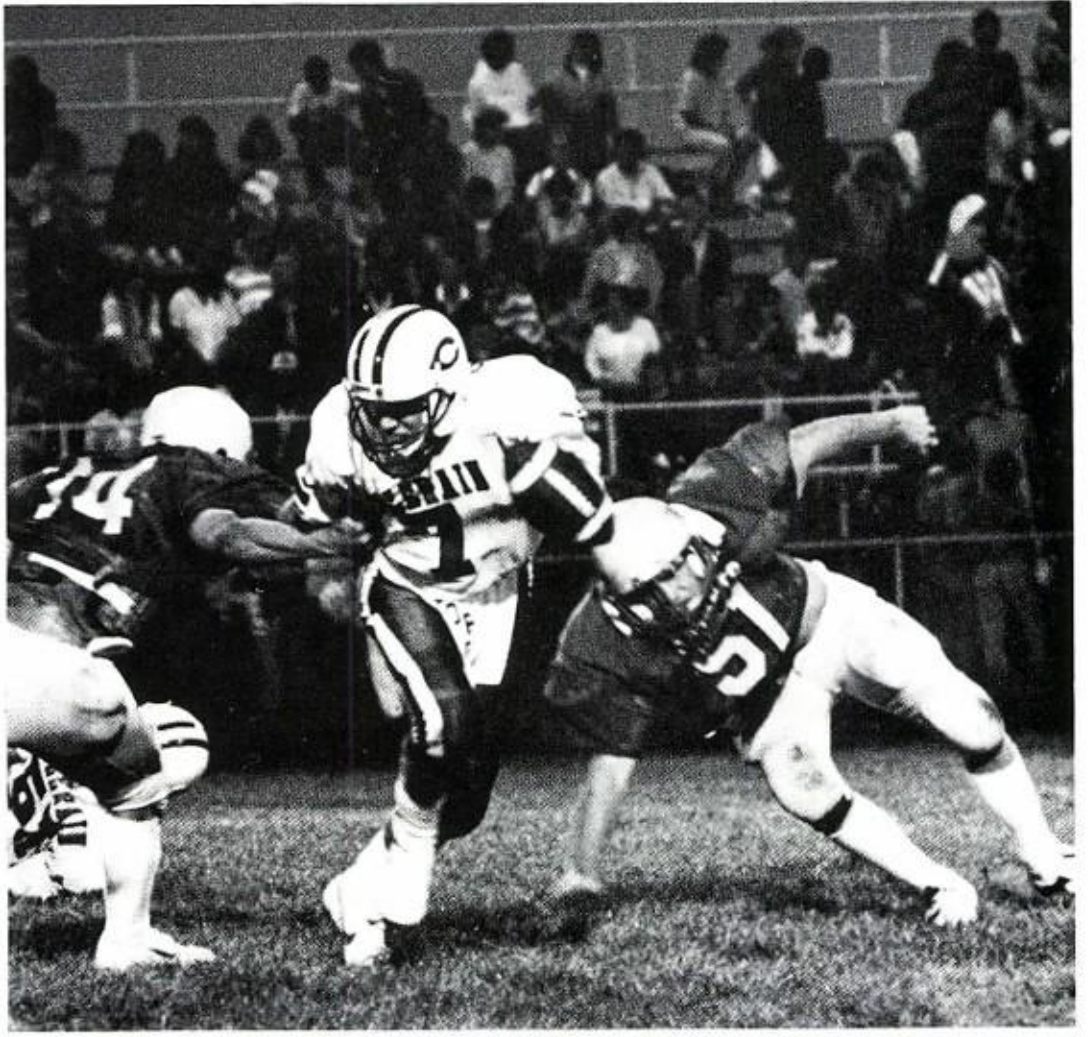

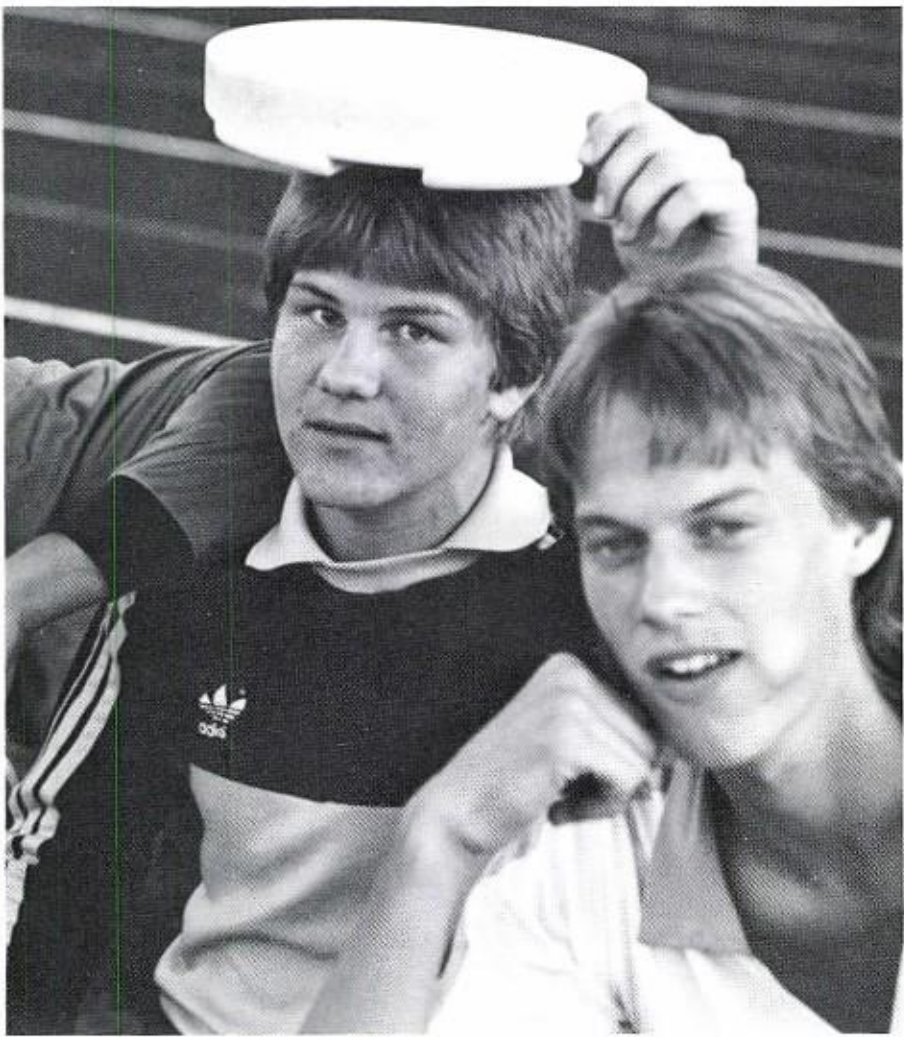

Grappling with inexperience and the need to forfeit three matches, the wrestling team focused its efforts on re-building. Seniors Kevin Lewis, Kevin Gregory, and Randy McCann provided a small corps of expertise, with Lewis and Gregory advancing as far as the regional meet. A fine second place showing in the league meet was an indication that the young wrestlers were nobody's "fall guys," and served as an upbeat closing note to retiring coach, Mr. Tolbert.

Batter up

No soft touches, the Varsity and Junior Varsity softball teams both had quite successful seasons. The varsity team finished with a record of 12-11 and tied for the League Championship, and the J.V. finished with a record of 9-7 and took third place in the Sycamore Invitational. K. Ditullio, C. Hesse, C. Hursong and K. Huselton were selected for first team All-League in the M.C.C. Karen Huselton was selected as player of the year in the M.C.C. and Chris Long and Sheri Sicking both received honorable mention.

Puttin' on the Hits

Dreary, wet weather put a damper on Colerain's season and halted another fine season for the Cards. A solid team batting average helped the team with impressive victories over league champs Oak Hills and other opponents. Several times during the season the runs, drips, and errors caught up with Colerain as they finished with a 16-8, second place finish. Despite their eight defeats, Colerain's year proved to be exciting with a no-hitter pitched by Stu Lovdal. It was the bottom of the seventh, two outs and the tying run was in scoring position. Dan Barrington was pitching, and Coach Colussi was waiting anxiously. It's the wind up and the pitch; "STRIKE THREE," yelled the umpire and the players congratulated their coach on his 400th victory.

Practice Pays Off

Sore muscles, heavy breathing, and many hours of practice lined the path for a successful track season for the Lady Cards. Regular warm-ups included one-mile runs and strenuous stretching. The Cards were rewarded for their outstanding achievements by accomplishing a third place finish in the conference. Awards were given to Lori Collins, MVP; Connie Morgan, most improved; Sarah Sakmyster, He-Man award; and Jenny and Stephanie Tsuei. Chris Long-ed for a school record as she lunged for the tape that stretched across the finish line of her record breaking 1600m run. This valiant display showed the girls' attitudes towards winning and reaching new goals.

Starting the season with third place and second place finishes, the Cards' outlook was dim. However with hard work and extra training, the team broke out of their slump and into victory by winning their next two meets. The next test of their skill came at the Best of the West meet. At this competition, the Cards did a superior job, placing third out of numerous opponents. At the end of the season the Cards at last tasted sweet victory in capturing the Metro County League championship. The Flying Cards proved that with a little training and a lot of hard work, they were definitely champions.

1986-1987 Student Council

Decision For Revision

In the past, student government was seen by some as an unrecognized and thankless task. For this reason, Student Council opted to turn over a new leaf this year, and chose to rebuild what they considered to be a fading image.

President Steve Kipp and selected members of the Executive Board and Council updated the constitution to better suit the changing needs of the student body. The ever successful dances provided continuity in the midst of revision, and sparkled through with the irrevocable Cardinal spirit. Student exchanges were randomly sprinkled throughout the year to promote the sharing of ideas.

Welcomed by many students was the reopened Doughnut Shop, which fed ravenous pupils every Monday and Thursday morning. Improvements in school lunches, both in service and substance, were sought and delivered after joint meetings involving the Executive Board, the school dietitian, and administrators.

Finally, a clean-up of the mall area in front of the school was proposed. Combining words with action, Student Council showed a willingness to apply a little elbow grease in order to execute their decision for revision.

Letter perfect leaders

Student Council members are active in many activities as is evidenced by Homecoming Dance organizers Nancy Clapp, Tonya Shah, Amy Ott, and Jenny Stephens.

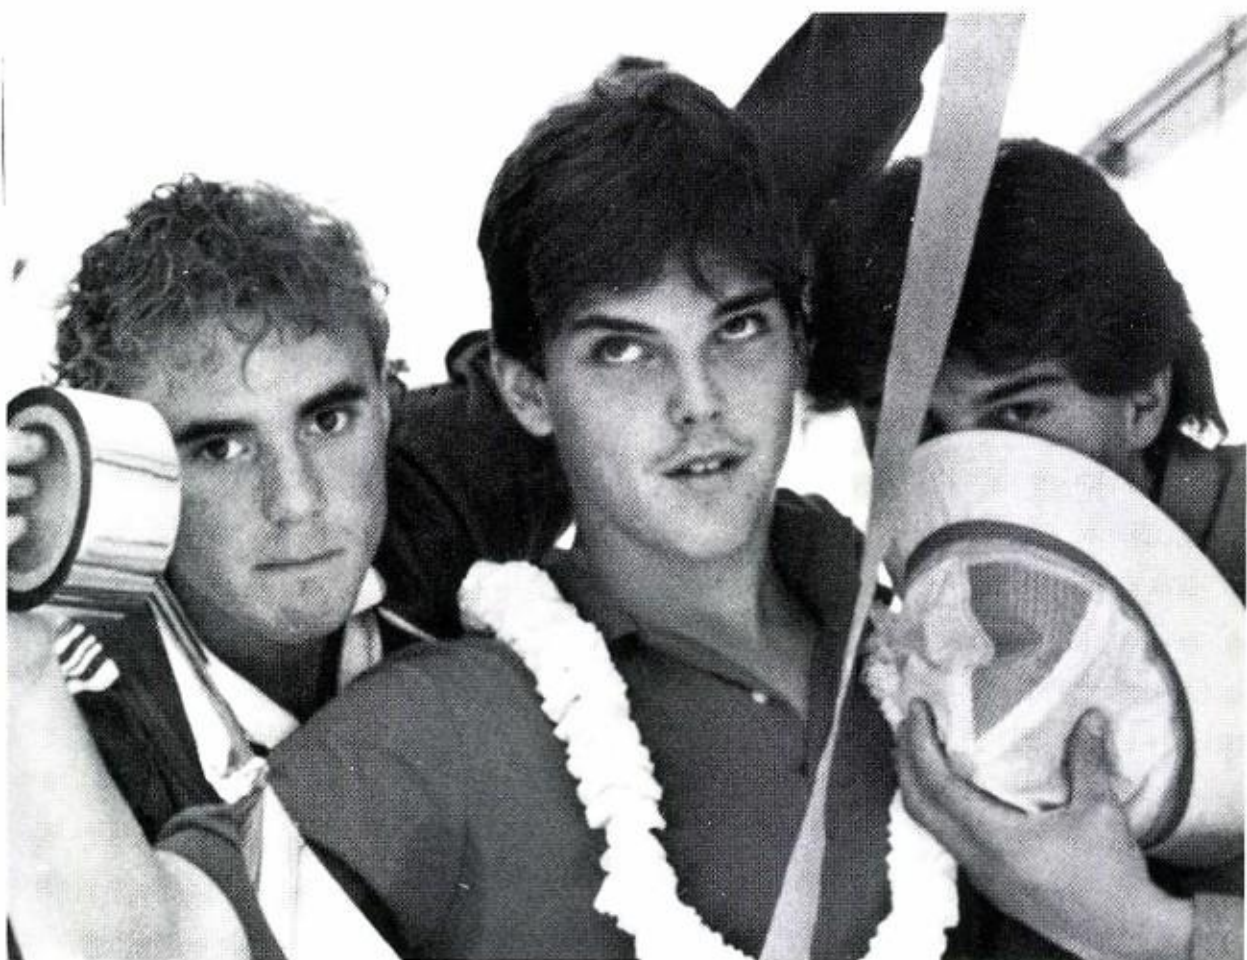

Leading Loyalty

Interested participants and worthy leaders comprised the bodies of C-Club and Presidents' Council. With a year filled with events, C-Club members, all of whom have received varsity letters, displayed active school support. The group sponsored both football and basketball homecomings and encouraged enthusiasm by organizing a student spirit section at the basketball games. A new endeavor was also included in C-Club's activities. Established was a Hall of Fame to honor successful graduates. Moreover, the organization presented scholarships to one male and one female senior student whose achievements were both academic and extra-curricular. Leadership in school organizations provided the basis for participation in the Presidents' Council. This highly selective group met regularly to coordinate the plans of all school associations. Active and involved, the members of C-Club and Presidents' Council led the way in building loyalty and spirit.

Courage enough to take the initiative in their careers and their futures was evident in many who joined the vocational program. Two organizations, the Ohio Office Education Association, and the Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America, helped with the advancement of their members. By striving to develop leadership, scholarship, and character, and encouraging school spirit and community service, O.O.E.A. and V.I.C.A. provided the extra effort for the shared goals to push the vocational students to the top.

Poms and Circumstances

Spirit, charisma, and pizzazz were what Karen Meinerding, Reneé Lemmons, and the rest of the cheerleaders accomplished throughout the school year. They spent long hours trying to create a new style for their cheerleading routines. A new style was definitely achieved this year. This style was shown when they won the most improved cheerleading squad award at camp over the summer. They certainly filled the teams and fans with a new kind of spirit. By Michelle Lane

Struts and Stuff

The summer ended as previous summers for the Flag Corps and Rhythmettes—the infamous Band Camp—however, there was an added excitement. Besides the new location—Northern Kentucky University—they were preparing for the deserved honor of performing at the Cincinnati Bengals exhibition game on Aug. 29. Flag Corps officers—Pam Pasley, Kim Shircliff, and Julie Vieson and Rhythmettes officers Jeanie Davis, Tricia Wright, and Paula Price—spent many hours developing and teaching the routines. The superior effort of all the Flag Corps and Rhythmettes was evident. They received superior ratings at State Competition, and, along with the band, they took thirteen awards in one weekend! 1986-87 Varsity Wrestlettes

Giving everything they had, the Wrestlettes and Spikettes cheered the wrestling team and track team on to victory. Wrestlettes were sponsored by Miss McDowell, who enjoyed working with all the girls. The Wrestlettes didn't just cheer for the wrestlers, they kept stats on them as well, sold tickets at the door, and they decorated the team's lockers for special matches. Spikettes kept statistics on the track team. They went to different meets to record the times which the runners had run. Both of these groups showed real dedication in helping the wrestling and track teams make the season run smoother.

Playing to Win

The crowds roared as the Colerain Marching Band high-stepped onto the field at Riverfront Stadium. A grand performance at the Bengals exhibition game on August 29 started the season on a high note. In preparation for this season, (the football season), and endless competitions, the band slaved at their art through the summer. They were rewarded by winning 13 trophies in one amazing weekend. Congratulations were well earned as the band continued stepping up the ladder of success!—By Amy Brooke and Michelle Lane

We're just two horny guys.

A beastly bunch ... 666

Arousing the general morale of the Colerainian mob at various functions such as pep rallies with the cheerleaders, was foremost in the minds of the Pep Band. Under the superb direction of Marty Hinterlong, the far-from-brash brass, silky woodwinds, and upbeat percussionists drummed that Cardinal spirit into our hearts.

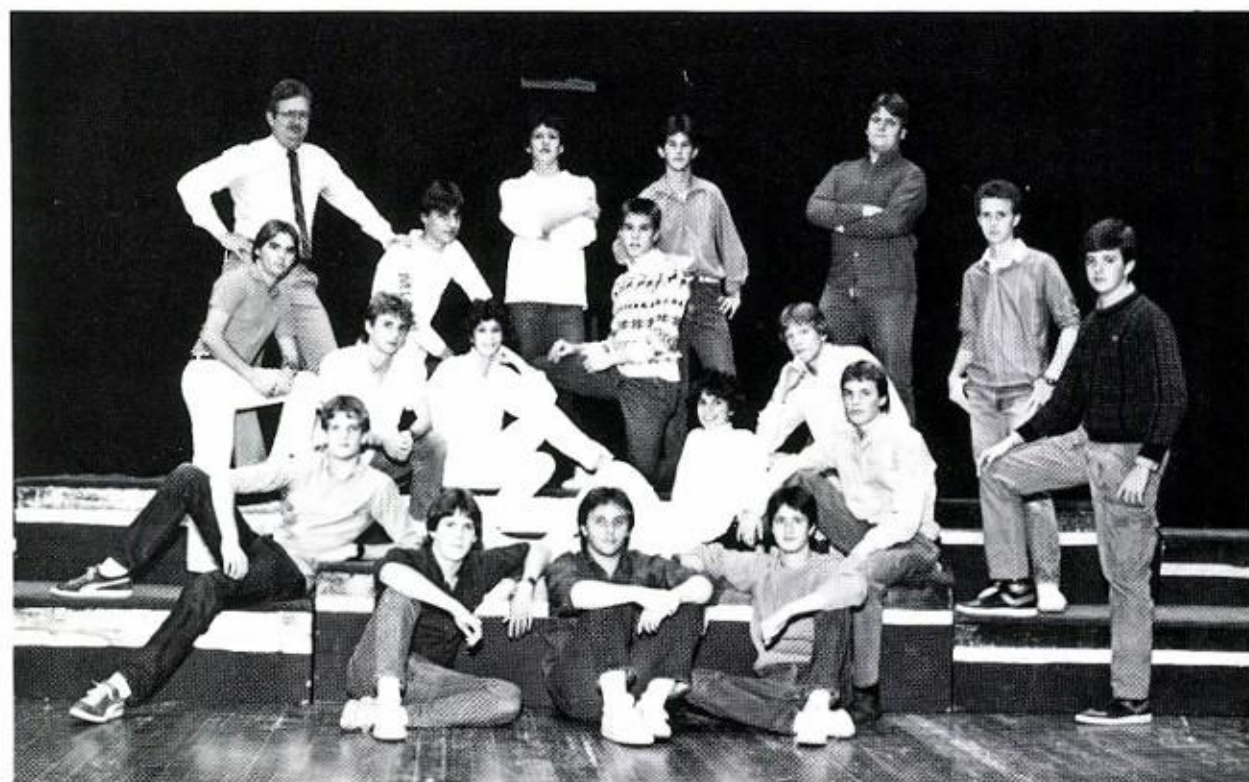

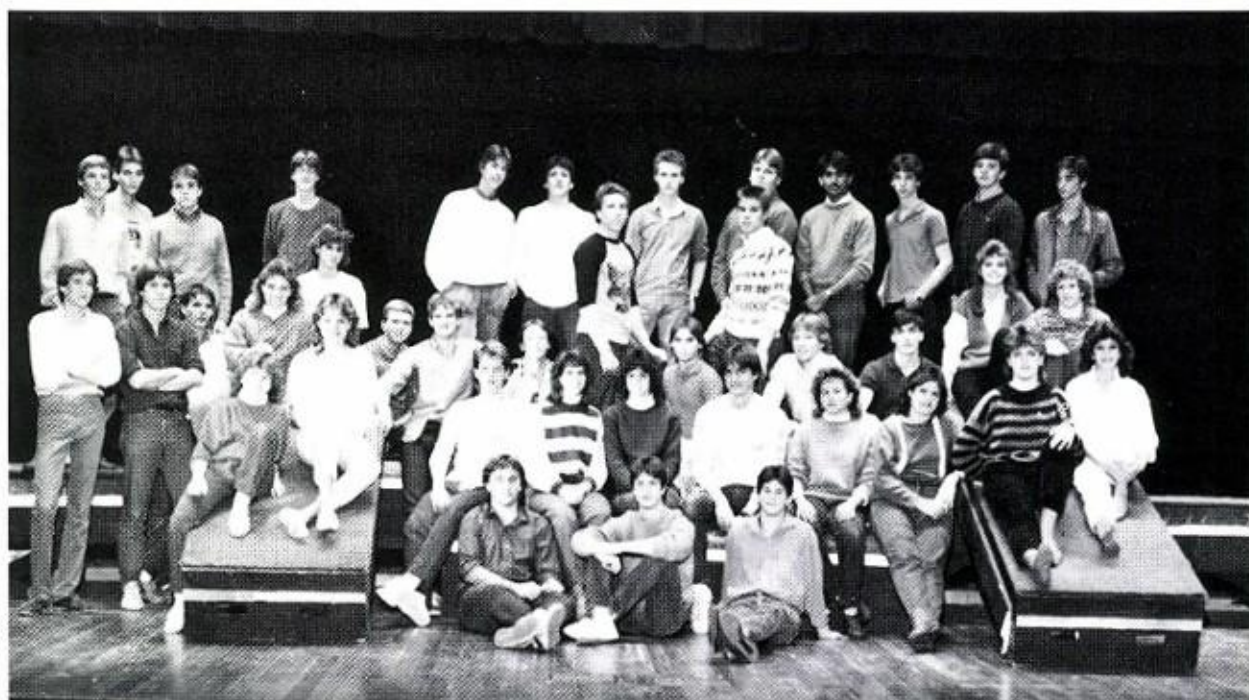

The fine, fizzaline performances of the Jazz Band awakened a bold, new taste in its audiences. We never seemed to quench our thirst for those hot licks that jive crew so effortlessly slid into their unique sound.

Through their "concerted" effort, a record fourteen trophies set a precedent for an incredibly psyched group, the Concert Band. Displaying the talent and effervescence that won several Best Percussion Line trophies, the combined efforts of the bands produced great entertainment, whether performing at Bengal's games or the Y.M.C.A. groundbreaking ceremony. The psyched-up bands proved that enthusiasm is contagious.

Cultivating and captivating audiences at every performance was the crowning achievement of the String and Show Orchestras this year.

Exchange concerts provided these members with the opportunity to compare and combine their talents with that of area high school orchestras, like Anderson, Fairfield, Forest Park, and Northwest.

On home ground, the orchestras hypnotized young and old alike with the progression of each note. Soon after the Christmas Concert, the group began to work diligently in preparation for the upcoming annual State Orchestra Contest, with a hiatus only for the District Solo and Ensemble Contest. The sometimes sagging morale was kept alive by the colorful antics of Mr. Gaines and bassist Mike Cobb, who thrived on antagonizing Mr. Gaines with his "strange" rap music and his excessive rosin consumption. Their constant endeavor proved to be more than profitable, with a Superior I rating in February. Life after the State Contest was wholly consumed with rehearsals for the spring musical and tentative outdoor concert.

Getting it Together

1986-87 Colerain Collage

Rhythm, harmony, and eye catching performances were some of the talents exhibited by Collage. Collage practiced hard for a variety of upcoming performances during the year. Competing at Piqua, Collage received second runner-up out of sixteen performing groups. Their efforts were also richly rewarded when competing at Ball State. There they received awards such as first runner-up, Best Show, Best Choreography, and the Director Trophy for Best Spirit. In addition, Collage participated in local competitions, and performed for a wide variety of groups from elementary schools to local T.V. programs. Superbly combining song and dance, Collage really got it together.

Performances, Programming, Pencils

Just as the melodious quality was abundant, so were the performances given by Ensemble and Sophomore Choir. Much time and effort allowed both groups of singers to travel to several OMEA contests, Northgate Mall, and the Festival of Trees. They also hosted home concerts at the high school. Ensemble was particularly honored as they displayed Colerain talent on television's Ira Joe Fisher Show during the Christmas season. Sophomore Choir and Ensemble conveyed the message of music to appreciative audiences.

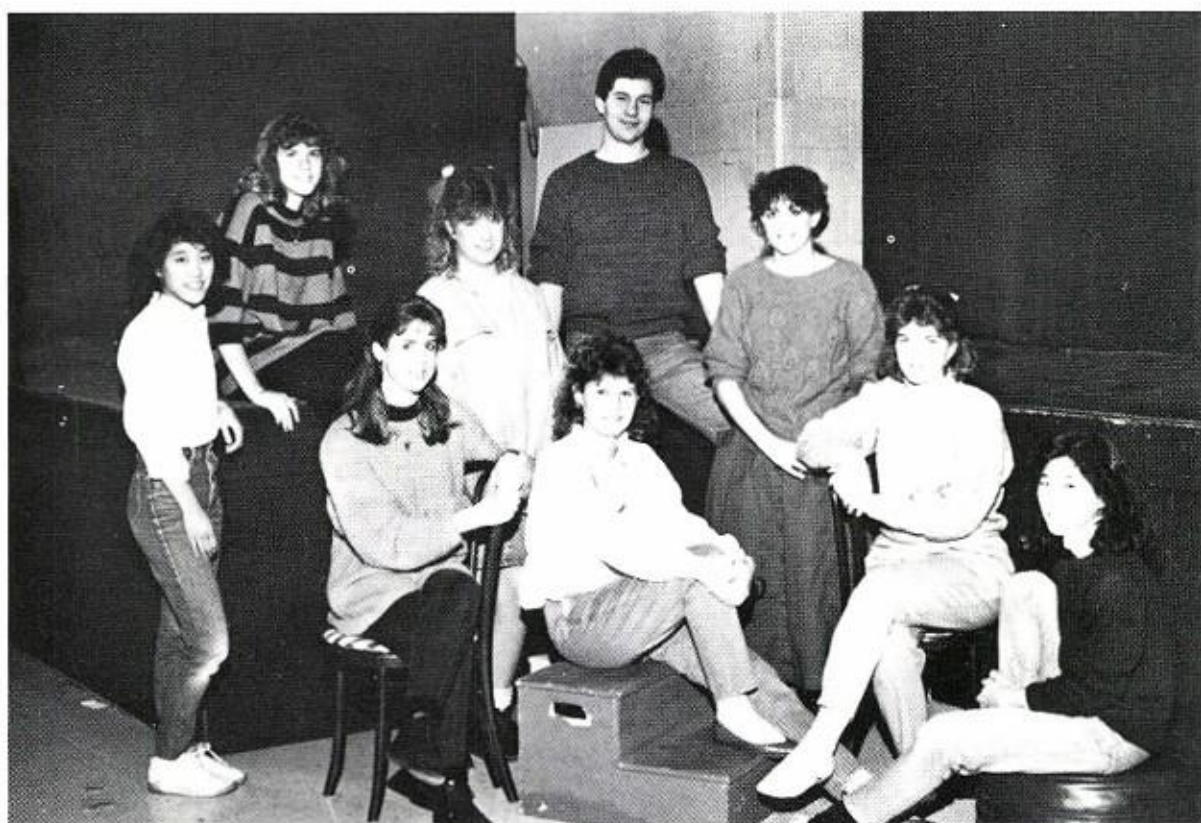

Discs and drawings occupied the extra time of many students who were involved in Computer Club and Art Club. The computer club, supervised by Mr. Beers, experienced programming throughout the year. They offered a computer dating service for the Christmas Dance, which was a popular highlight. The art club met on several occasions to exploit the talents of Mrs. Hilliard's creative students. Among many great works was the decoration of the new Hall of Fame. Contemporary mechanical and traditionally elegant—these differing interests composed these two enriching clubs.

Come out and Play!

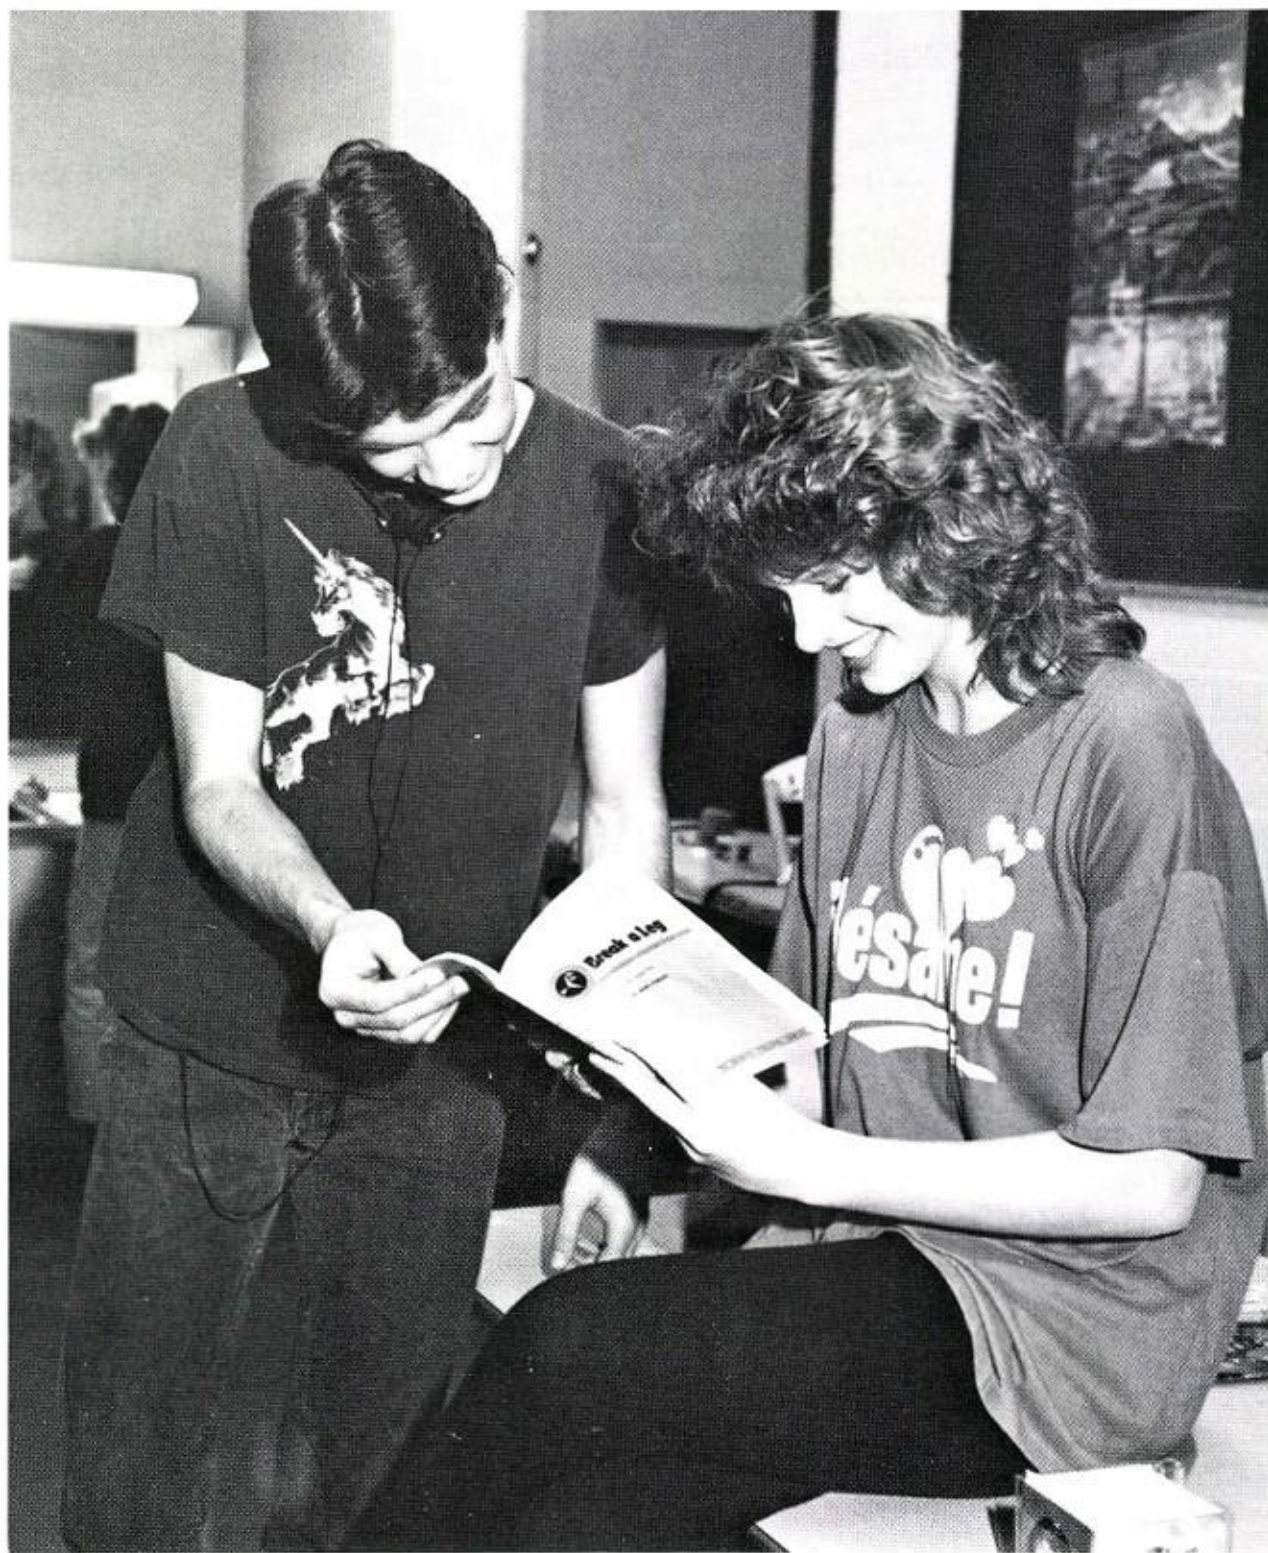

Oh, how they bring the stage to life! Drama Club and Thespian Troupe 1093, under the direction of Miss Stephens, were very busy and profitable organizations. The drama season saw the successful completion of three masterful productions: The Diary of Anne Frank, Break a Leg, and the annual musical, The Sound of Music. With so much activity the members had little time to spare. Thespians, however, did put forth the extra effort in order to raise money for the June Bull-ock Memorial Scholarship Fund. The elite group collected the money by holding a rock-a-thon on their own beloved stage. Cultural excursions, such as productions by the Cincinnati Opera, broadened the minds of these acting enthusiasts. Spirited performances and enthusiastic involvement entailed not only much work, but also a great deal of "play."

Foreign Involvement

Many Colerain students who studied Spanish, French, or German in junior high enjoy continuing their studies at the high school. If so, they may have been involved in language clubs here.

Foreign languages included play as well as work. Many games were played for both fun and education. Foreign language clubs frequently added to the fun. The clubs hosted field trips and social events. A trip to an ethnic restaurant was a must for every language club. Clubs also fostered academic excellence by contributing scholarships to worthy seniors.

Special programs added to the quality of foreign languages. Spanish students were involved in teaching their skill to young elementary students. German students participated in the annual German day. All the languages were involved in Foreign Language Week. This was when the big volleyball game was held. German club won the 1986-87 game.

Snap, Tackle, Print!

The sound of typewriters, the sight of completed layouts, and the feeling of accomplishment: this is how someone from the Yearbook or newspaper staff would describe a successful day. Although words and pictures look good on a printed page, it takes a lot of time and cooperation to produce the publications. Thanks to the advisors (Ms. Murray and Mrs. Young), and to the editors, the yearbook completed a fantastic book, and the newspaper distributed seven informative issues. Along with the advisors and staff members, the combination of snapping pictures, tackling layouts, and printing the book, made for a successful year for Colerain publications.

Bike Club

Past, Present, Future

The interest of many Colerain students did not only relate to life around Colerain High School. Some students wanted to be involved in activities outside of the school. The Anthropology Club dug into the past on a retreat in Kentucky. They were interested in what our ancestors were like.

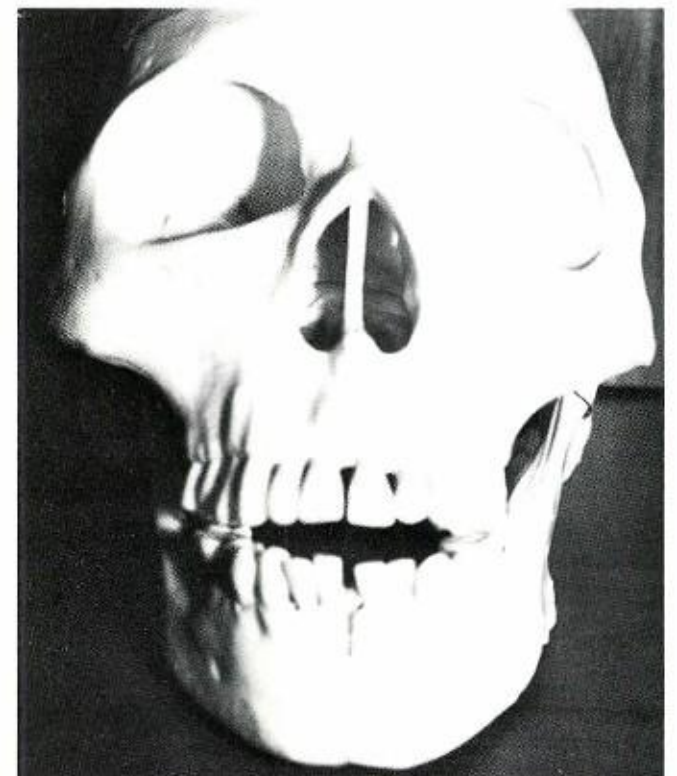

Key Club had an interest in helping solve our problems today. They were involved in community projects as well as preparing people for the future. Bike Club went on many rides. The people in this club said they just enjoy bike riding because it would help their endurance for future experiences.

Photon Club was also a new club. Students who played Photon became involved in an entirely different realm. With all of this advanced equipment, science fiction images of other worlds became quite realistic.

Worldly Wisdom

Experiencing and researching specific lifestyles was the purpose of the culture clubs. The Black Culture Club focused on the interest of Blacks in the schools and elsewhere. The Modern European Culture Club was centered on the varied ethnic societies that migrated to America. Throughout the year both of these organizations gained cultural understanding and knowledge through meetings and field trips to colleges and museums, among other places. Members of BCC also provided entertainment and raised funds by presenting a fashion show in March. Flower sales, held on two occasions, were used to expand the MECC's treasury. Adding to their worldly wisdom while having a good time, students learned about older traditions while establishing new ones.

Cooking up Careers

FTA had an exciting year. The group started off this past year by winning second place in the Football Homecoming banner contest. Field trips included a trip to Miami University and St. Rita's School for the Deaf. To receive a true taste of the life of a teacher, members spent a day at Colerain Elementary school shadowing a teacher. A final, perfecting touch was added to the year at an end of the year banquet.

Mouthwatering aromas, exotic meals, and once messy pans were just some of what Chefs Club experienced this past year. The members of Chefs enjoyed preparing the food, but not cleaning it up. This past school year members got together to organize a picnic. The question was did they make their own food or did they cheat?

What's a Senior?

sen'ior a. of higher rank—n. belonging to the elite group of those in the final year of high school. Being a senior goes beyond the basic definition. It's more than simply completing twelve years of school. A senior is a complex individual who has matured to the point where he can face the real world and overcome the most difficult problems. From the lush life of high school to the cruel reality of college or the work force, a senior is expected to meet these changes with responsibility, competency, and maturity. Right now, the hardest decisions we face range from who to take to prom to what college to attend. Feelings of pressure and loss plague us as we flounder through these changes to 'adulthood'.

Personalities

Personality—1. Quality or state of being personal, or being a person; personal existence or identity. 2. The pursuit of being an individual in a school the size of Colerain. Preppies, punks, brains, beauties, trendies and teasers—a fusion of different “types” under one roof. The high school years—times of change and identification. Freinds come and go just like Top Ten songs on the Billboard charts. Fads are picked up and then dropped weeks later. Throughout these three years of high school and all the rapid changes due to aging, personalities become etched in stone.

Cool—it's not just an attitude, it's a way of life.

“And I was worried about getting cold feet!”

“Lateral what!?”

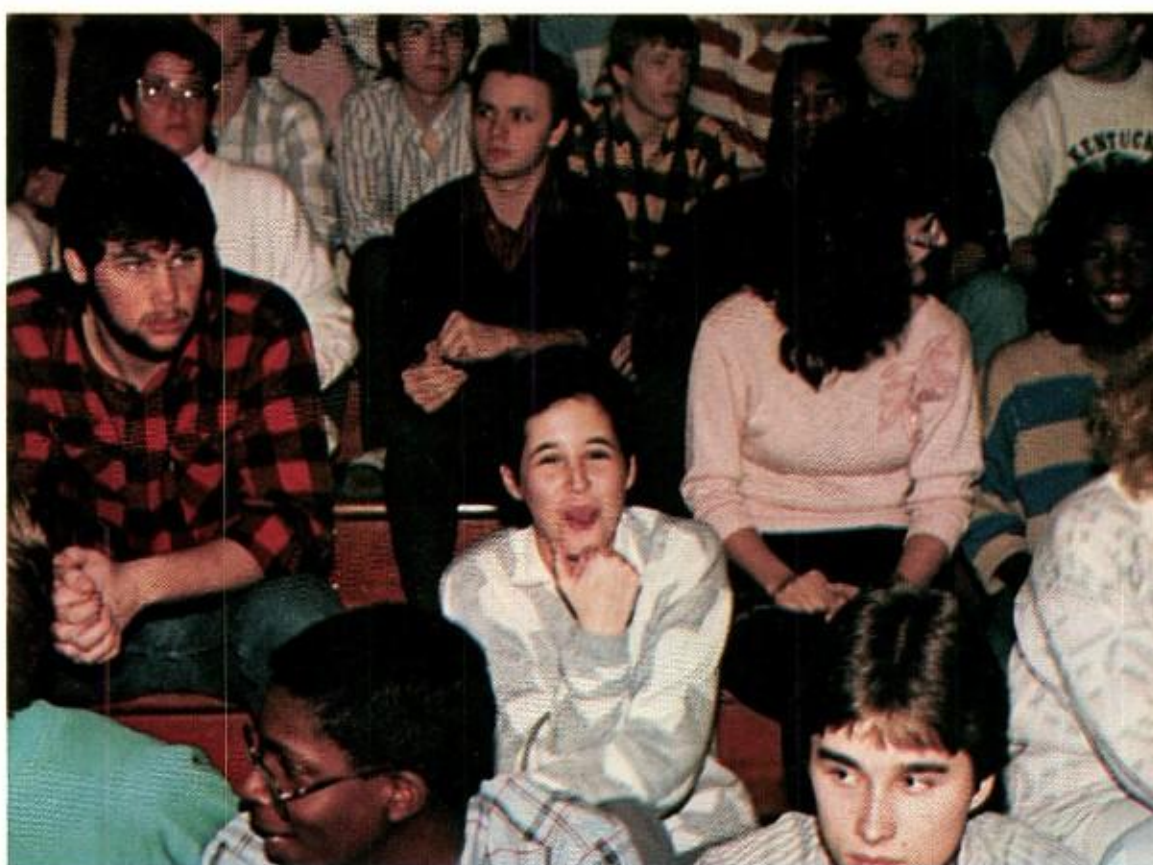

"Touch me again and I'll break your face!!"

"Who's going out with whom? Let me get this down!"

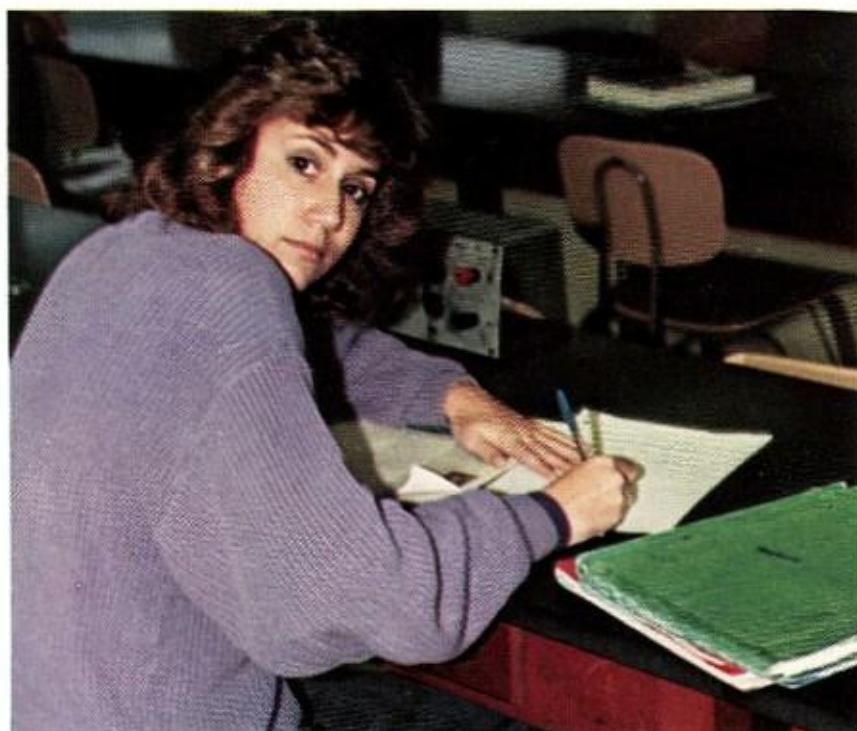

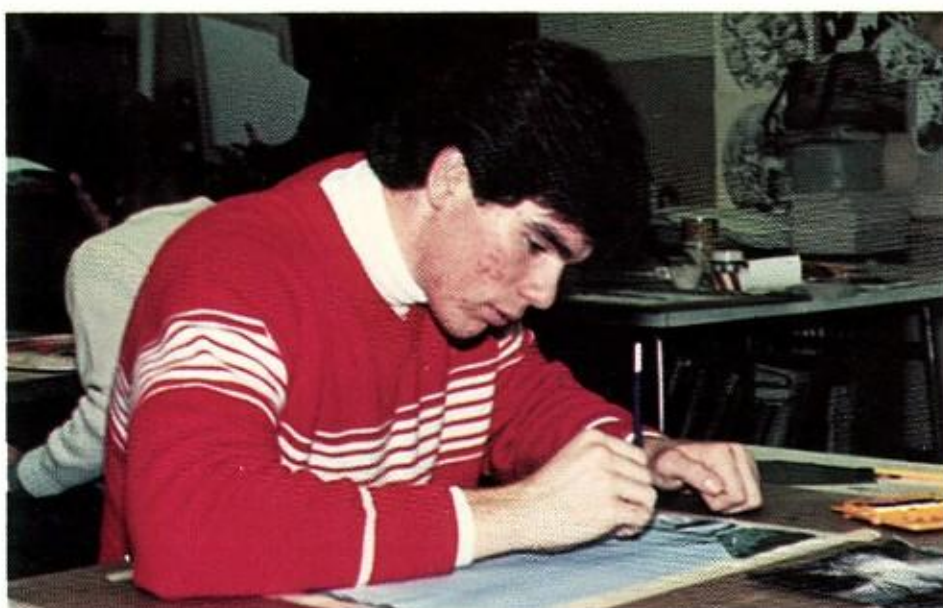

Kim, our living "Limited" mannequin.

Seniors stick out.

Personalities

the saga continues . . . Once a trendy, always a trendy. Qualities formed during the high school years are here to stay as a permanent part of our personalities. Conformist, anarchist, religious, or loner, people rarely change between graduation and the five year reunion. Friendships are born out of a need to bond with those like us. Skinheads stick together just as jocks do. No one stands alone in high school. Good or bad, everyone's got a friend. The need to be an individual is set aside as the need for acceptance steps in.

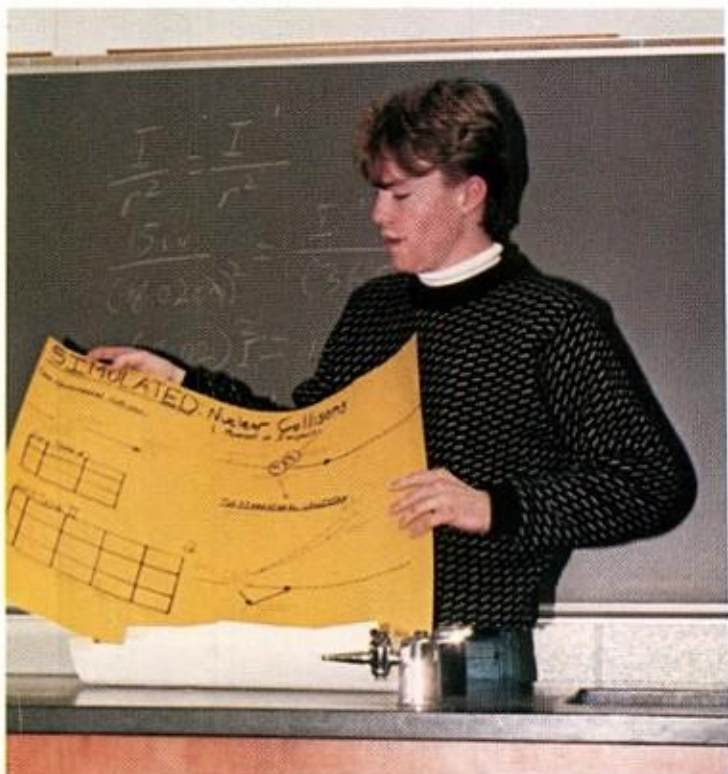

"What? Me cheat!?"

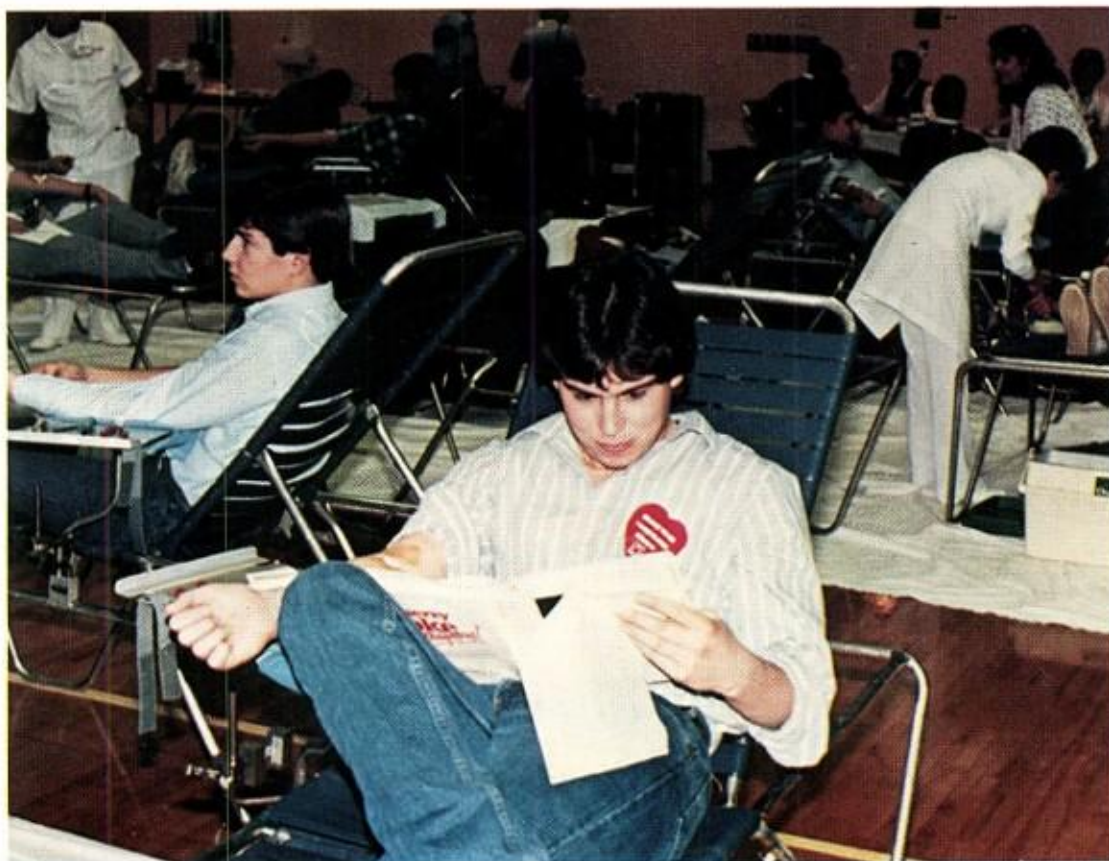

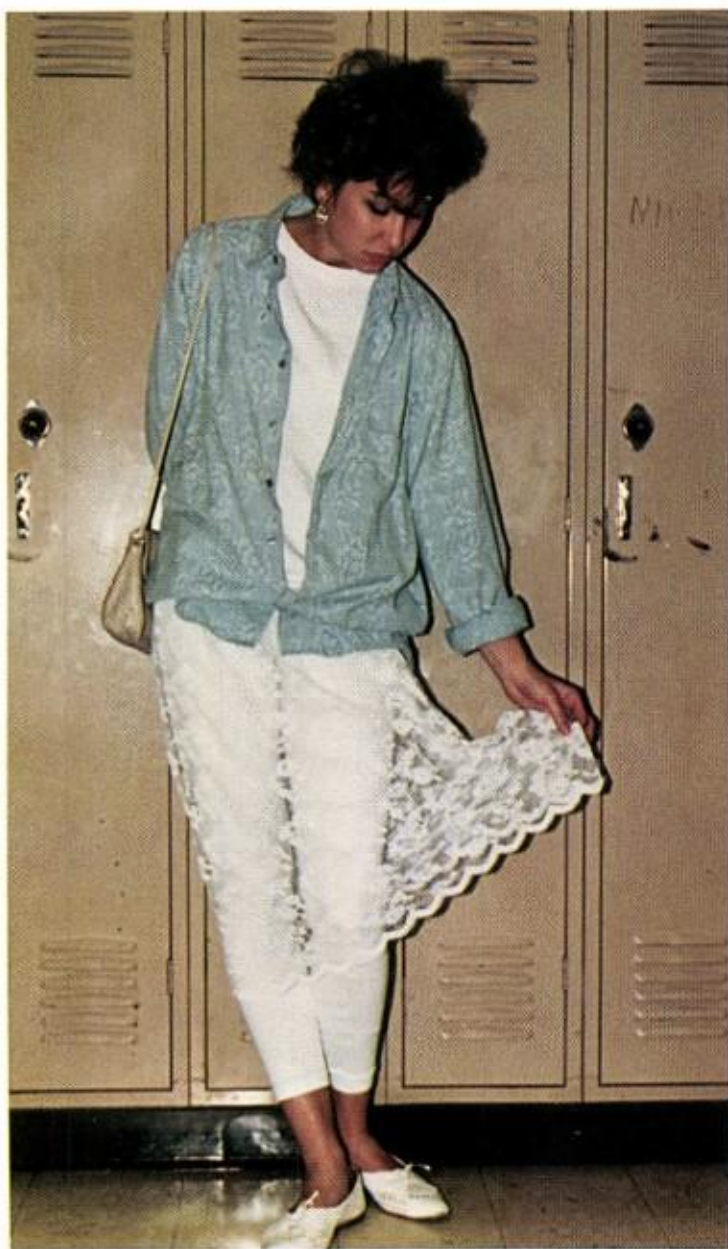

I ought to be an Avon Lady

Another Einstein

Smile . . . Rob loves ya!

Pairs

Acceptance is a key word during the high school years. Friendships are formed with bonds stronger than iron. Pairs, or groups, everyone's got someone. Ideas on the future, prom, weekend plans, fashion, and fads are exchanged over the phone or the cafeteria table. Secrets that would make your mother's hair grey are told only to that special group of friends.

We all need a little peace

"What class money?! We don't know nothing!"

Lucky Tonya!

"I'll show ya later ... she's watching us!"

"I think I'm gonna split!"

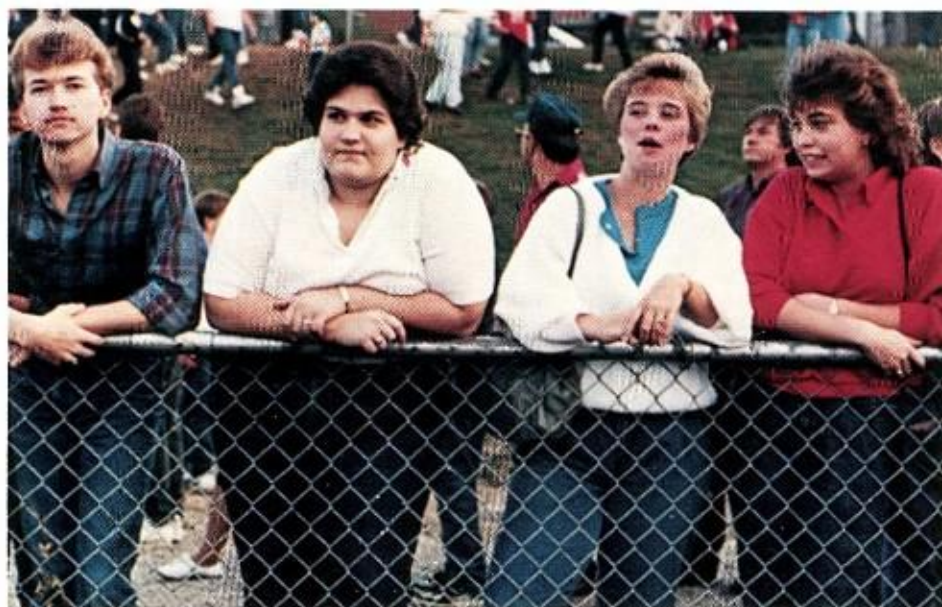

Tina's cute ... Mark's constipated

"Beam me up, Scotty!"

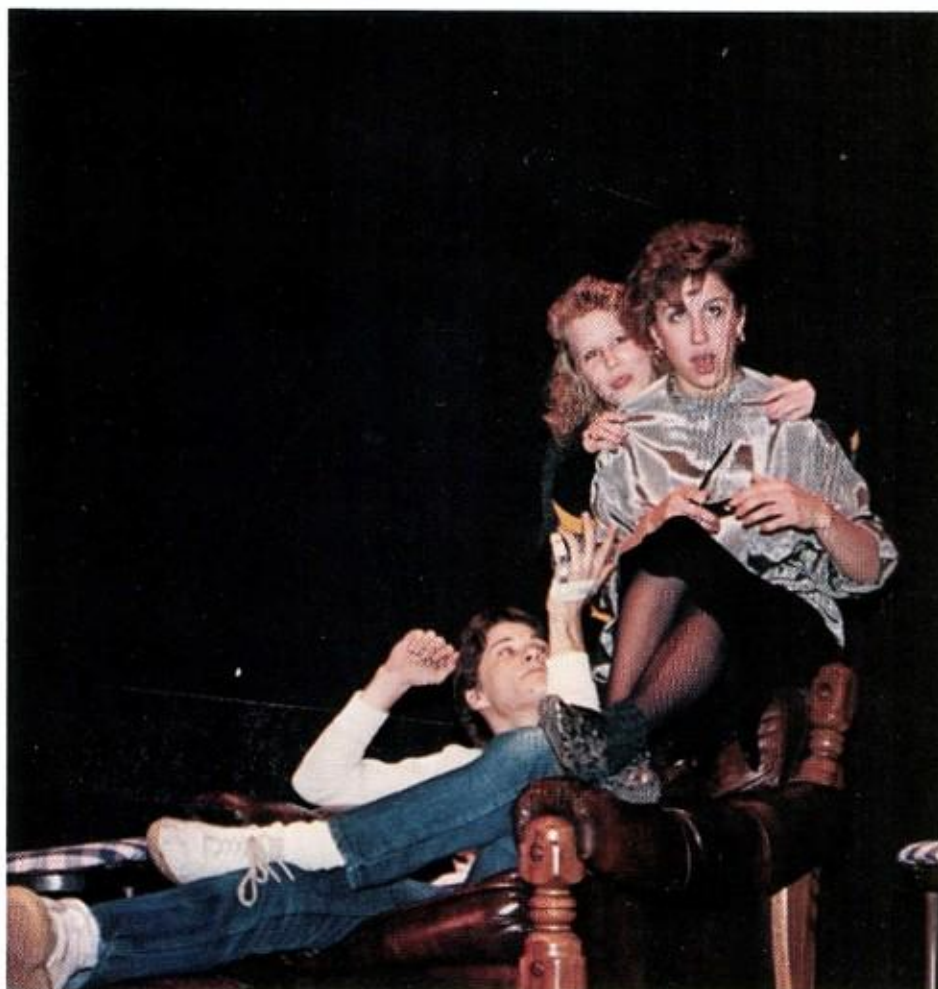

People

People—the general public, population, natives. We the people of Colerain High. A kinship created under the roof of Colerain High School. Yes, we're the Cards! A smile or nod in a crowd at someone else in a red and white school jacket. No matter how many differences we have between us, we are still bound in spirit—school spirit that is! All 440 of us! The 1987 Senior Class—where would Colerain be without us?

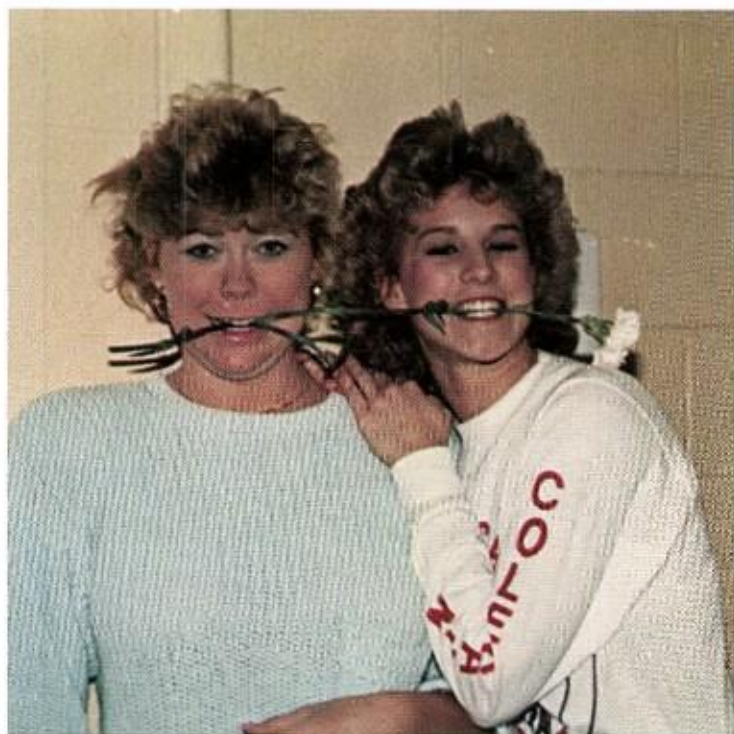

"Didn't you learn how to use scissors in Kindergarten?"

Kevin's Alter Ego!

A Menagé À Trois??

"I'm soo hungry ..."

Seniors Rule!!

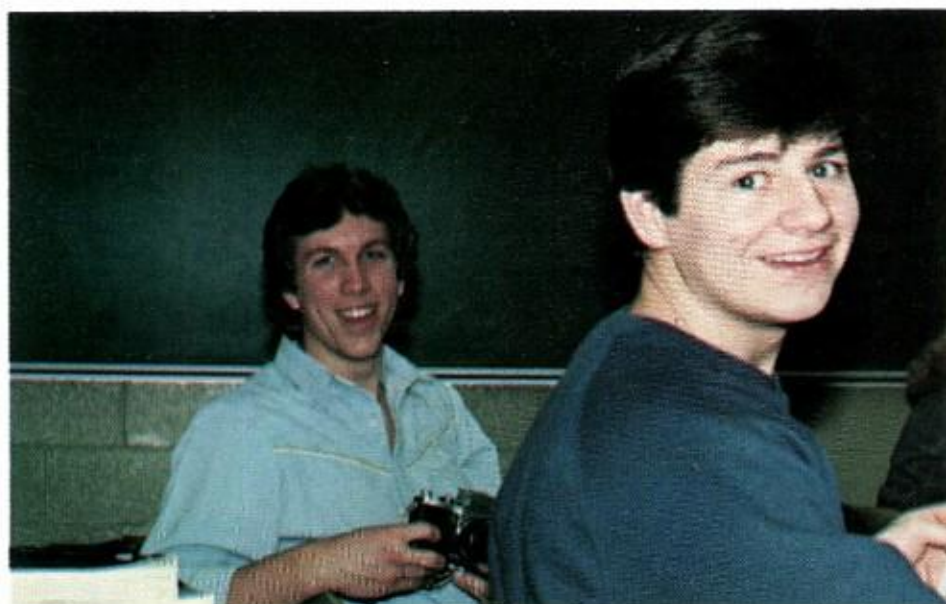

"Gee ... aren't we cute??"

Too cool for words ...

Pride

Yes, PRIDE! That feeling of elation when you ace your history exam or when you get a raise at work. Pride on a larger scale is seen in the halls of Colerain, the football field, or in the bleachers at the basketball games. We have worked on our own, in groups, or with the administration, to make Colerain a better school. The class of '87 has given the school plenty to be proud of—from great artists to great athletes.

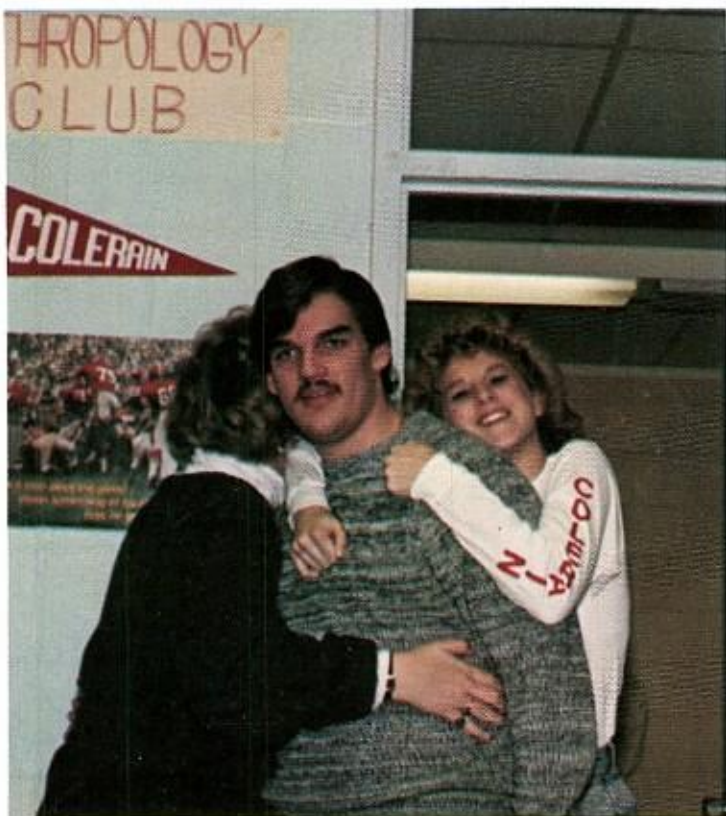

Seniors are so well informed.

Steve—a man in motion

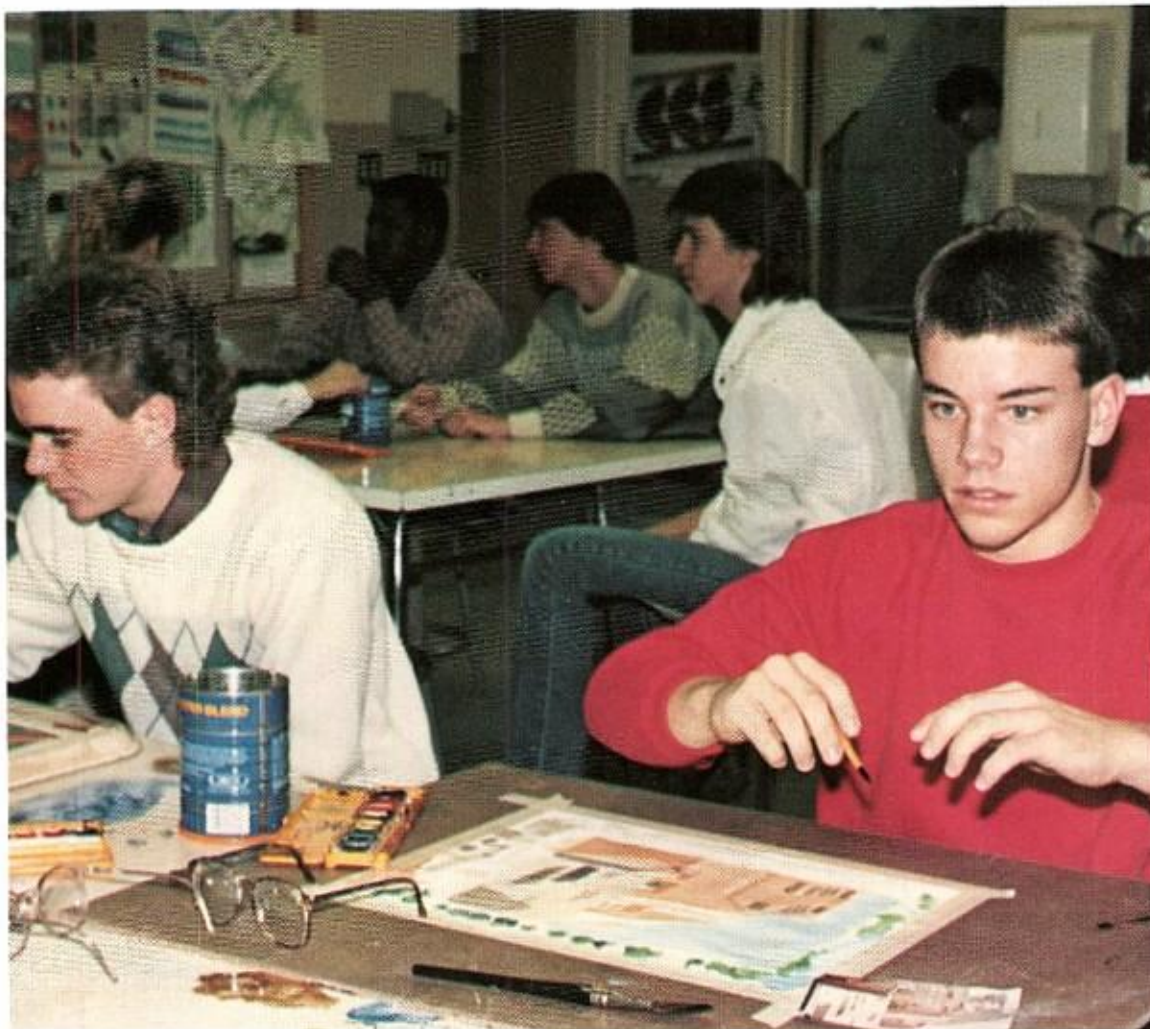

"See ... it's like this ..."

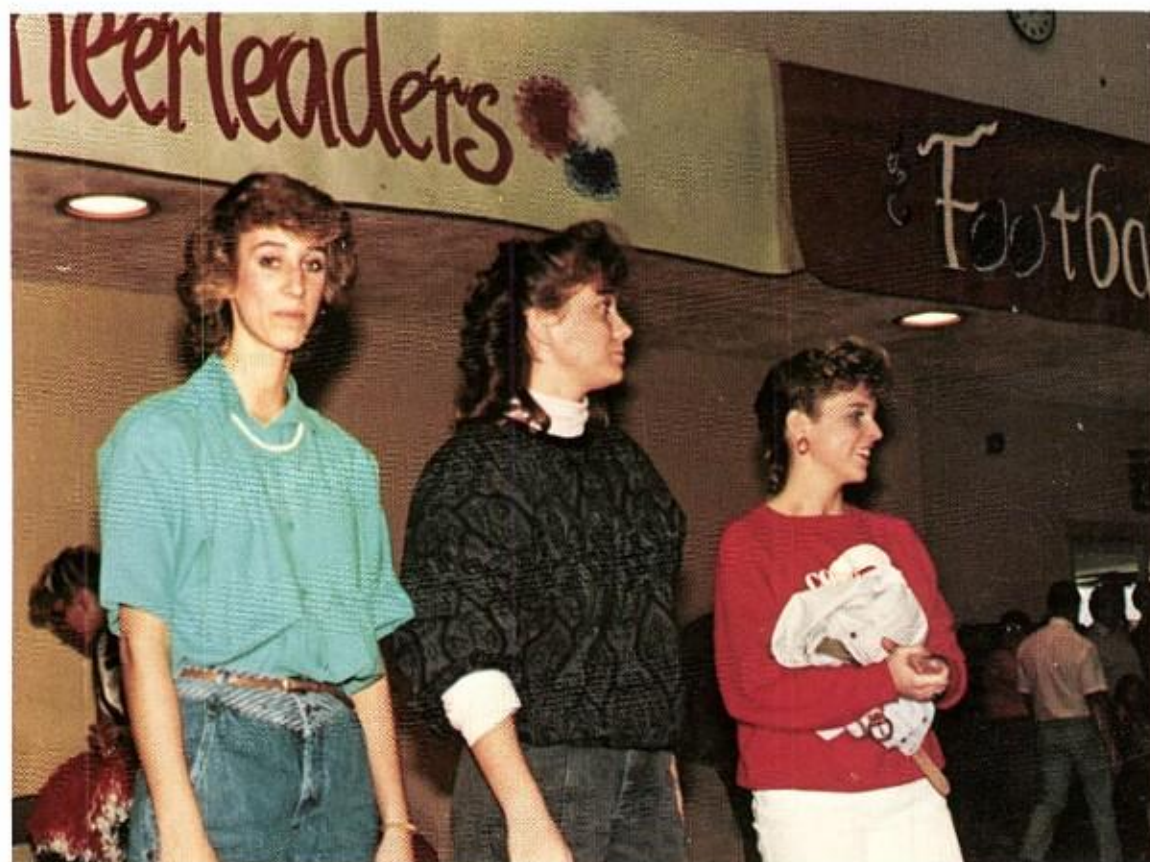

Future Seniors can be so lovable!

"Sorry, Kevin, it takes brain power to make telekinesis work!"

Do they always travel in herds?

"Not another award!?"

Jill is just too super!!

Pizzazz

pizzazz' n. vitality, dash, flair—it's more than just a haircoloring mousse, it's a pervading attitude. From the clothes we wear, to the fads we follow—we've got that winning style!

"I swear it worked at home!!"

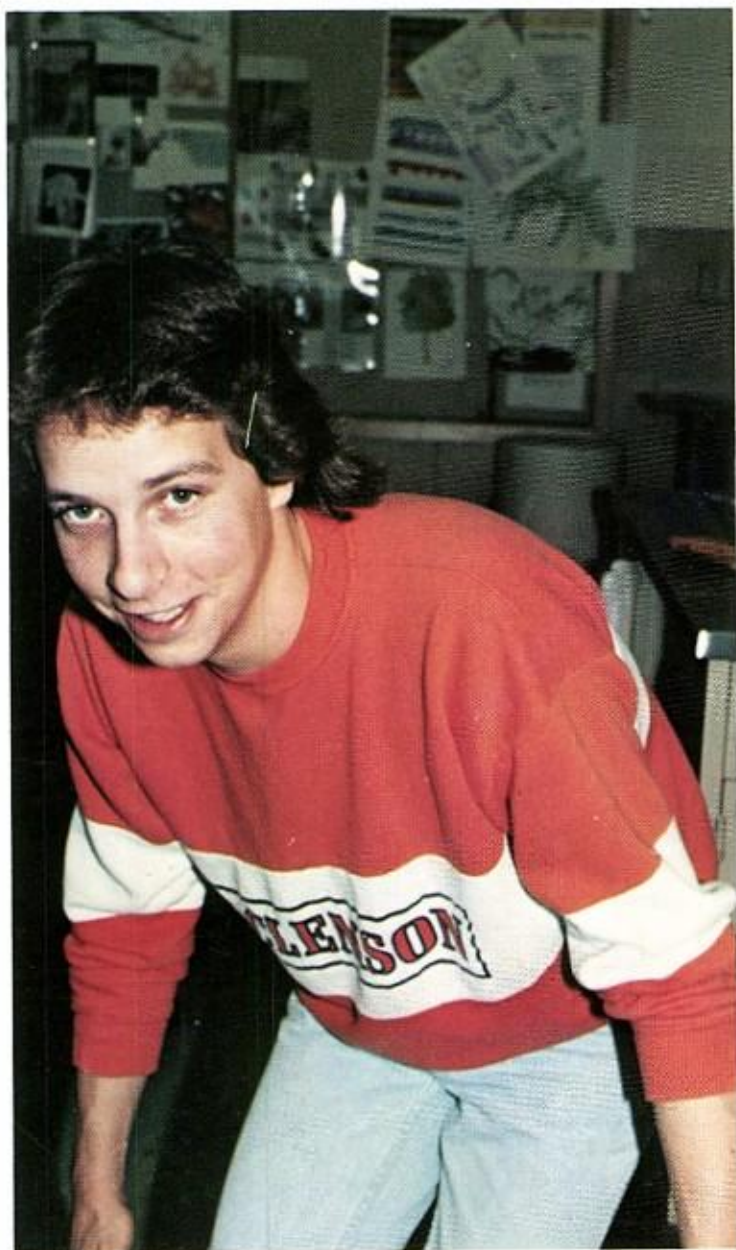

"Looking in a mirror, Tom?"

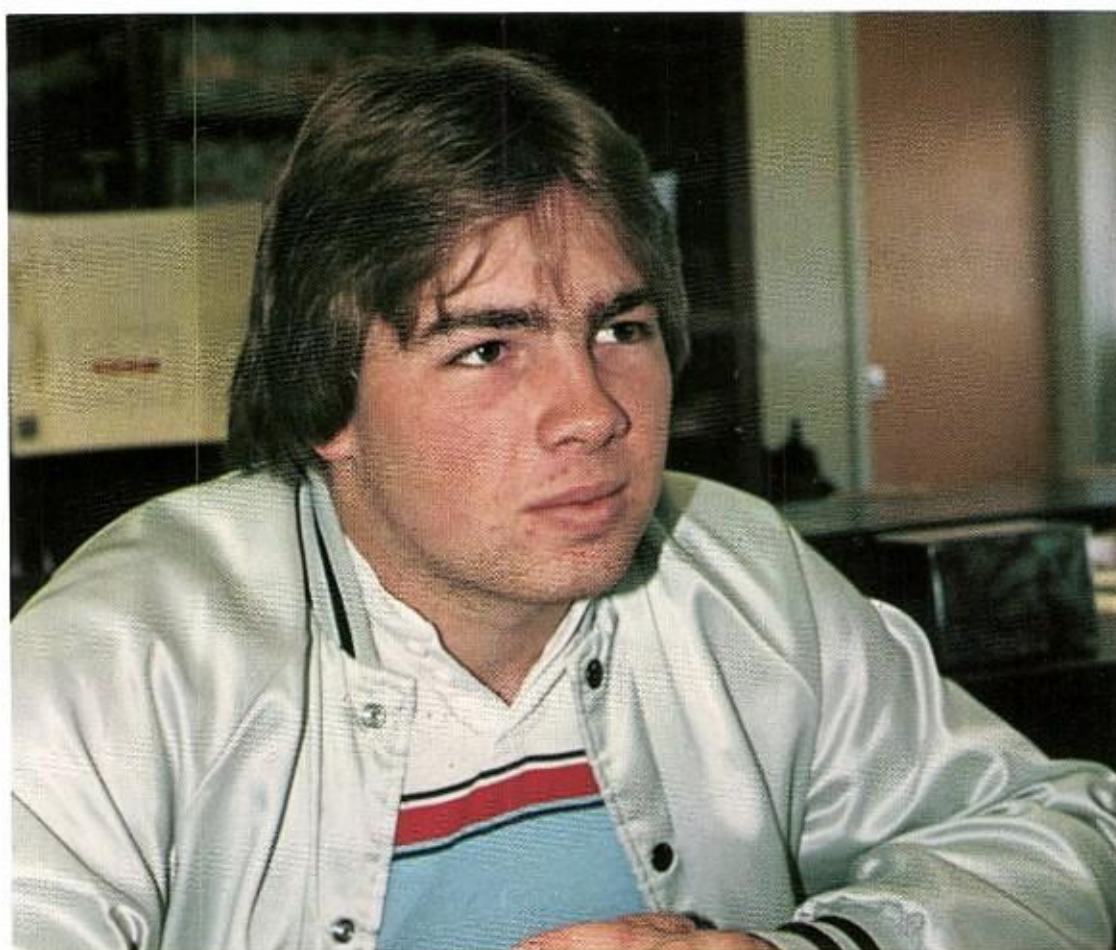

That classic face of senioritis

Rusty looks happy to be there ... (but who would be??)

"Marshmallow creme?"

"This is soo interesting!"

A Time To Remember

The 1987 Senior Class Prom. May 9th. 8:30-12:30. Moonlite Pavilion. Coney Island. This is the time to remember. The night of nights had finally arrived and what a production it was! An overgrown birthday party gone out of control, bunches of purple, blue, pink, and silver balloons festooned the Pavilion. A brilliantly star-studded moonlit sky set the romantic mood which covered the Prom like Saran Wrap over a bowl. Some danced to remember, some danced to forget. A talented Prom Committee led by Sue Bradley pulled the entire evening together perfectly. This was a night to remember. The Senior Prom.

Theme.....A Night To Remember
Song This Is The Time To Remember
Colors Pink, Blue, Purple
Flower Rose

Sophomore Sponsor: Mr. Lemmons
Junior Sponsor: Mrs. Ford
Senior Sponsor: Mr. Sturgeon

This is the time to remember, and it will not last forever ...

The Dance of Romance

These are the days to hold onto ... because we won't, although we'll want to ...

Elegance on Ice

Holding you close is like holding the summer sun, all warm like the memories of days to come.

Let's make this a sober prom.

Anticipation

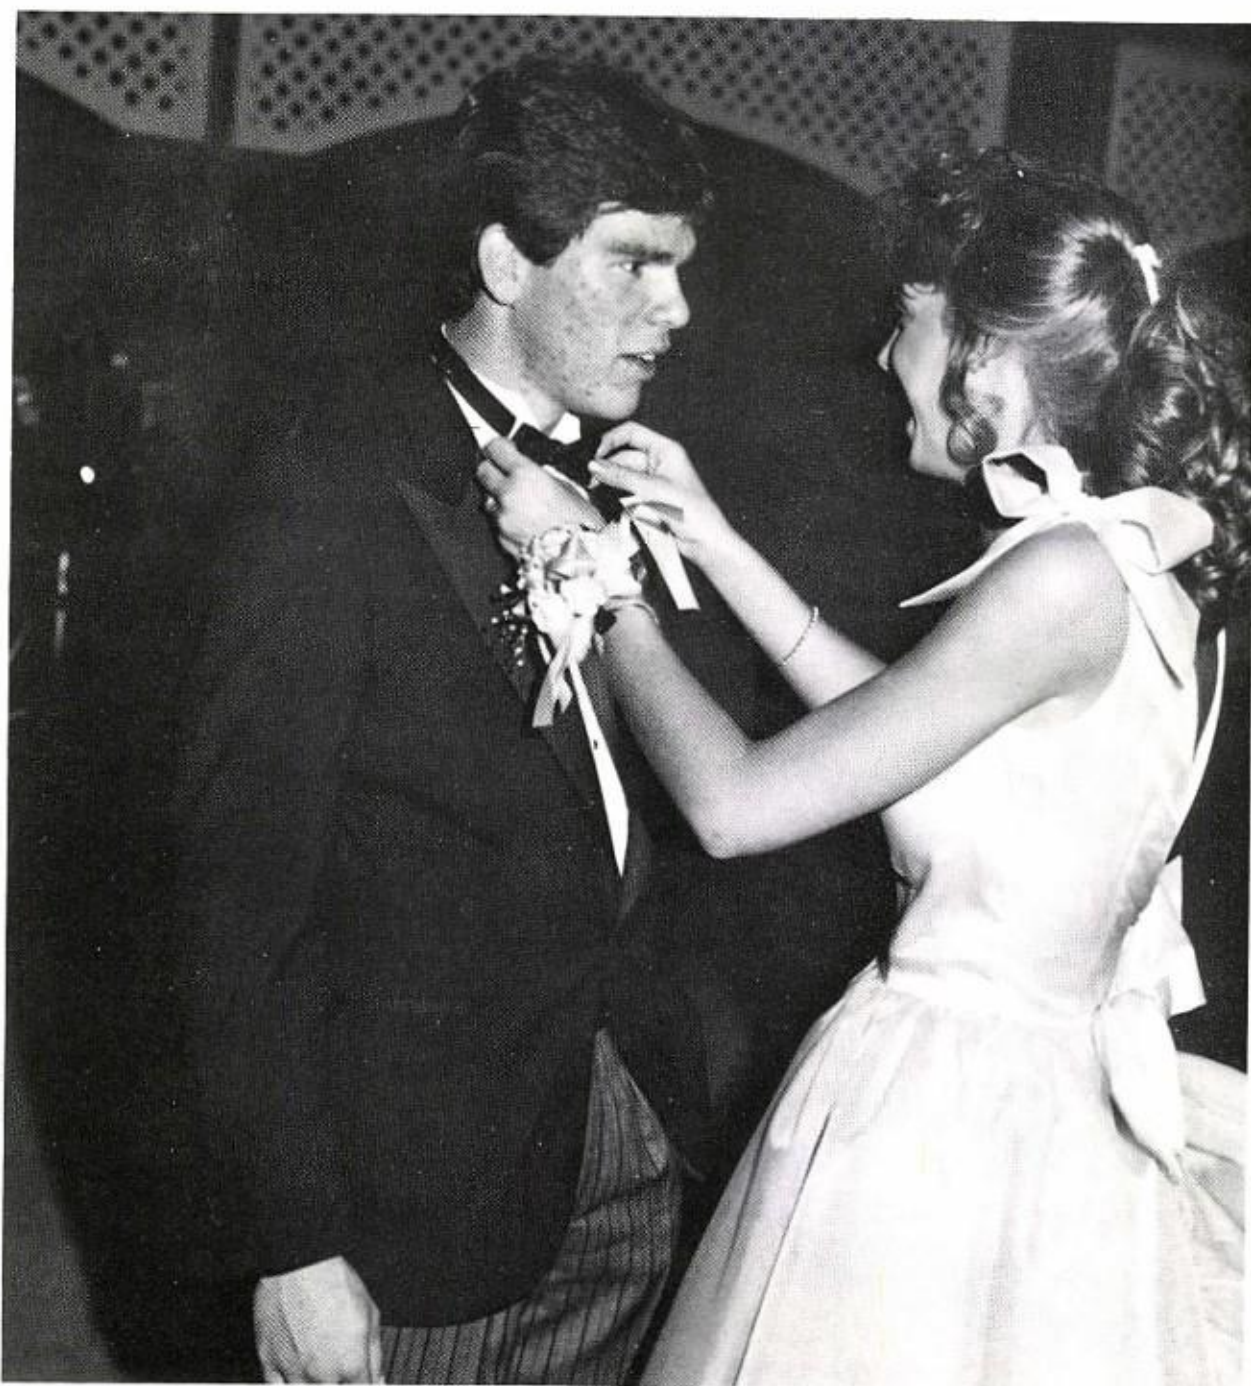

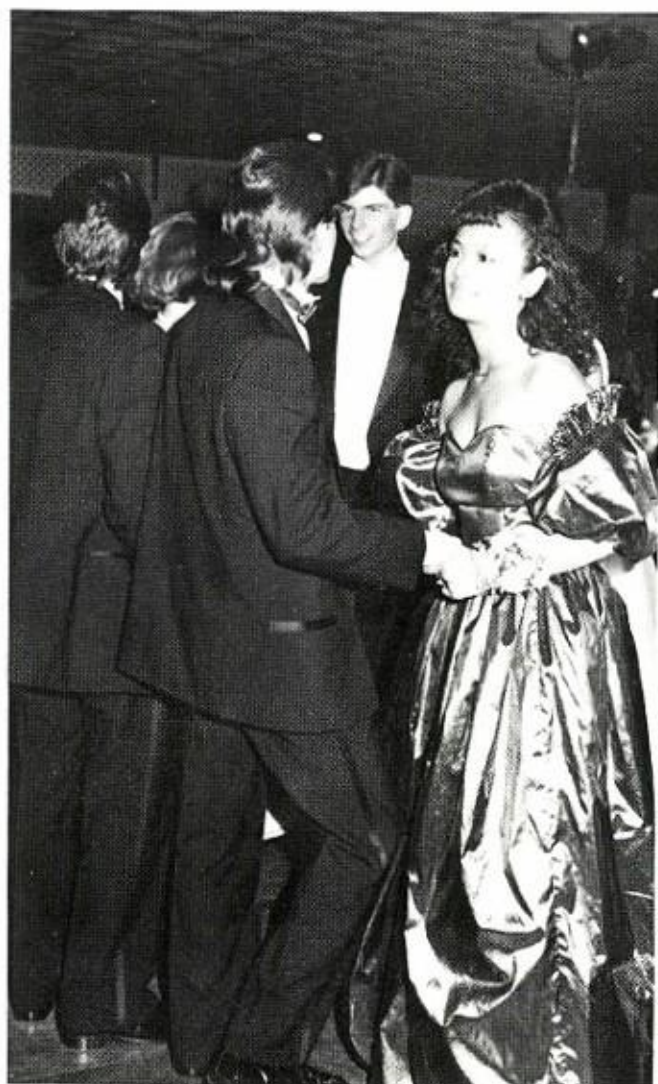

Lost: Three Dates . . .

These are the times, the times are going to change, You've given me the best of you, but now I need the rest of you.

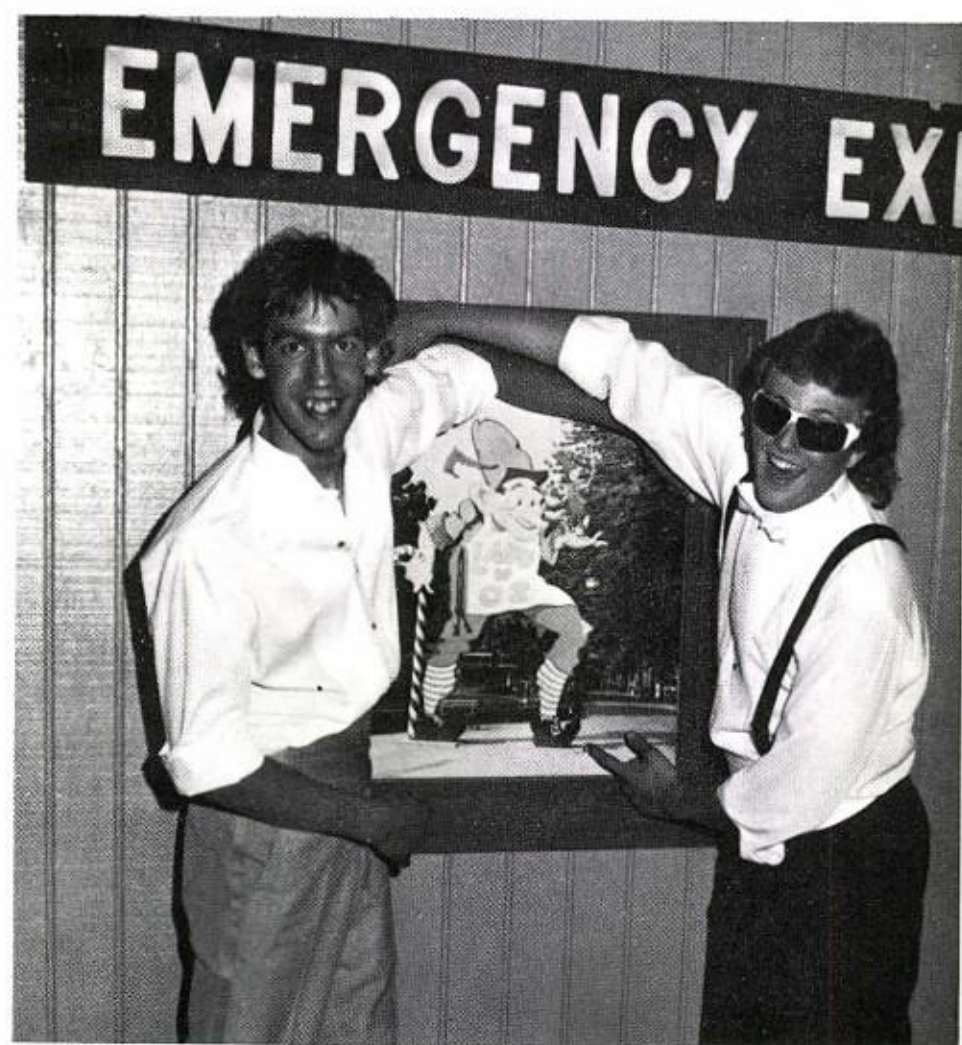

Tying one on.

A rose is a rose is Rose.

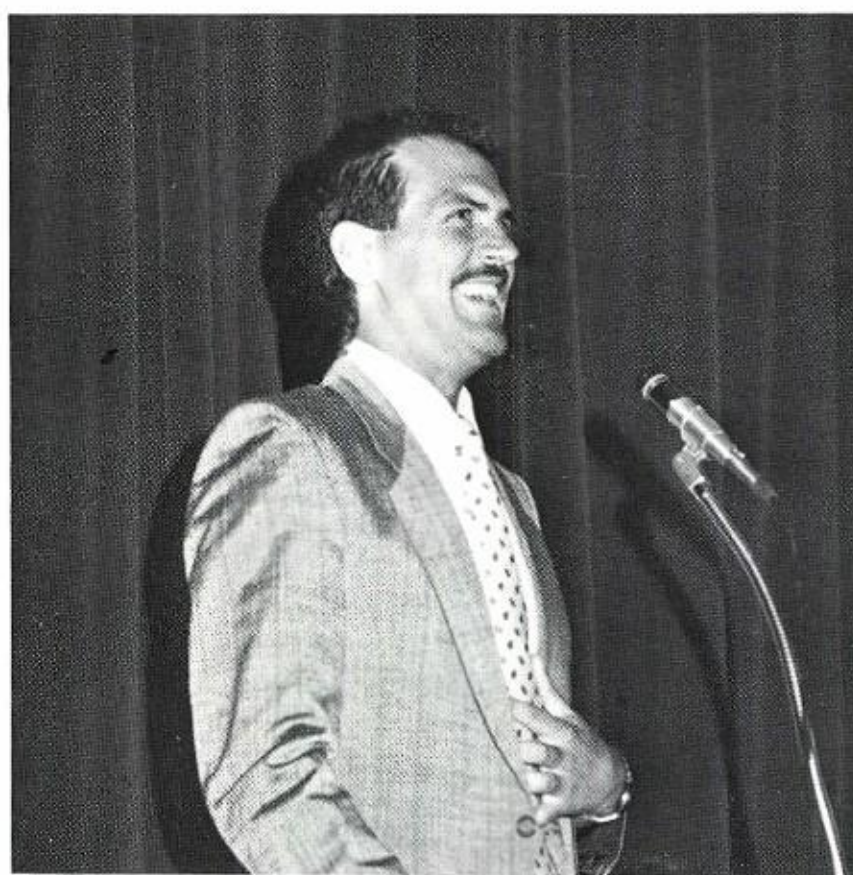

Mirror, mirror on the wall.

Some folks had strange post-prom plans.

Honors and Baccalaureate

Enthusiasm marks Dan Gillian's baccalaureate address.

Christy Hesse knows that success is sweeter when shared.

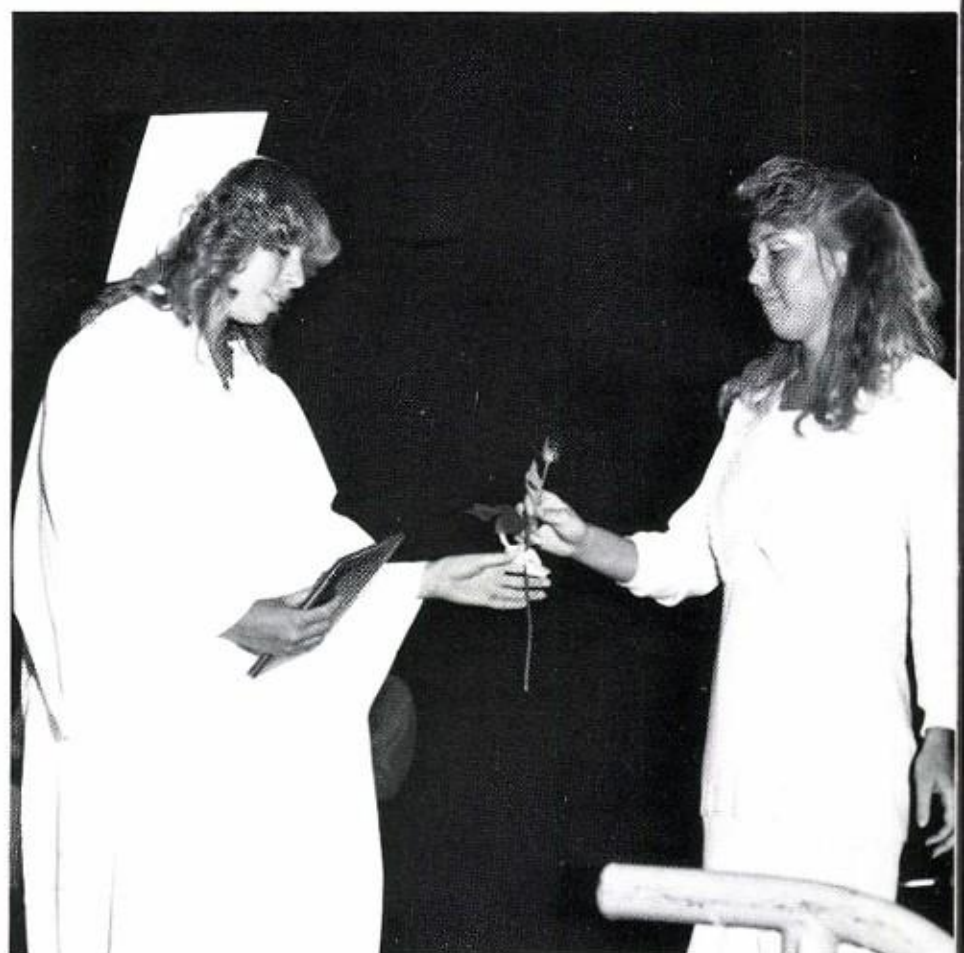

Graduation

Mark Willey, Salutatorian, sees a bright future ahead.

One last moment to reflect on the past.

Millett Hall millabout.

Roses for remembrance are delivered by the Junior class.

On again, off again, on again.

Last minute details are checked with Mr. Byrne.

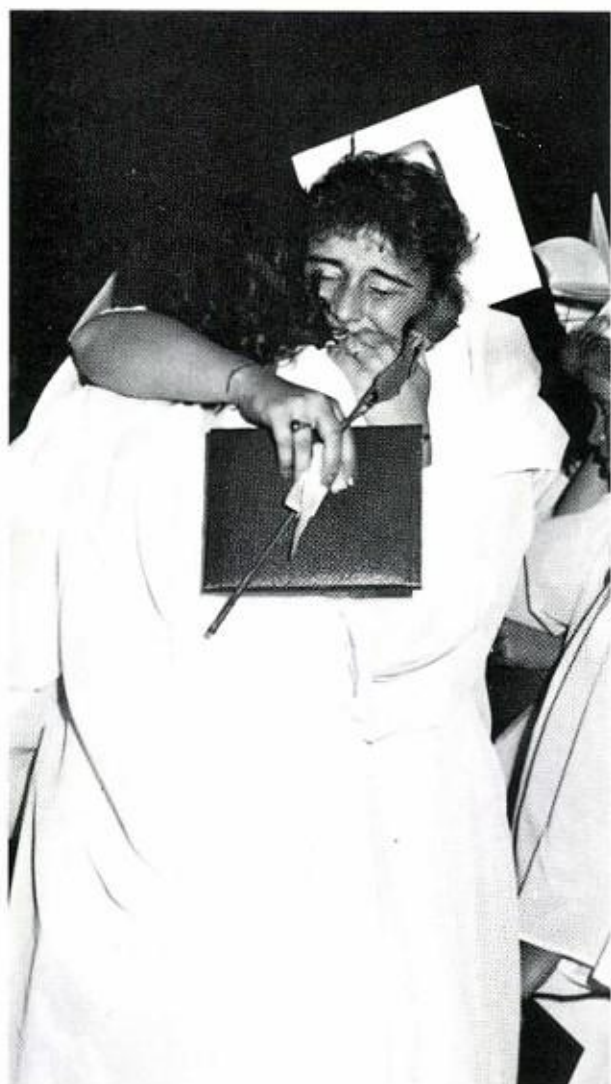

On their marks and set to grow.

Valedictorian Leah Hereth bids farewell.

Classes!

Ushered into the hall to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," the class of '87 experienced the nervousness and excitement of graduation. Following the group songs "Friends", and "My Wish For You," Mark Willey's speech projected hope. Leah Hereth touched all with the poetry of her speech. After some final words of advice from Superintendent Russell Sammons and Principal Terrence Byrne, the moment arrived. Diplomas in hand, it was HATS OFF to a real class act!

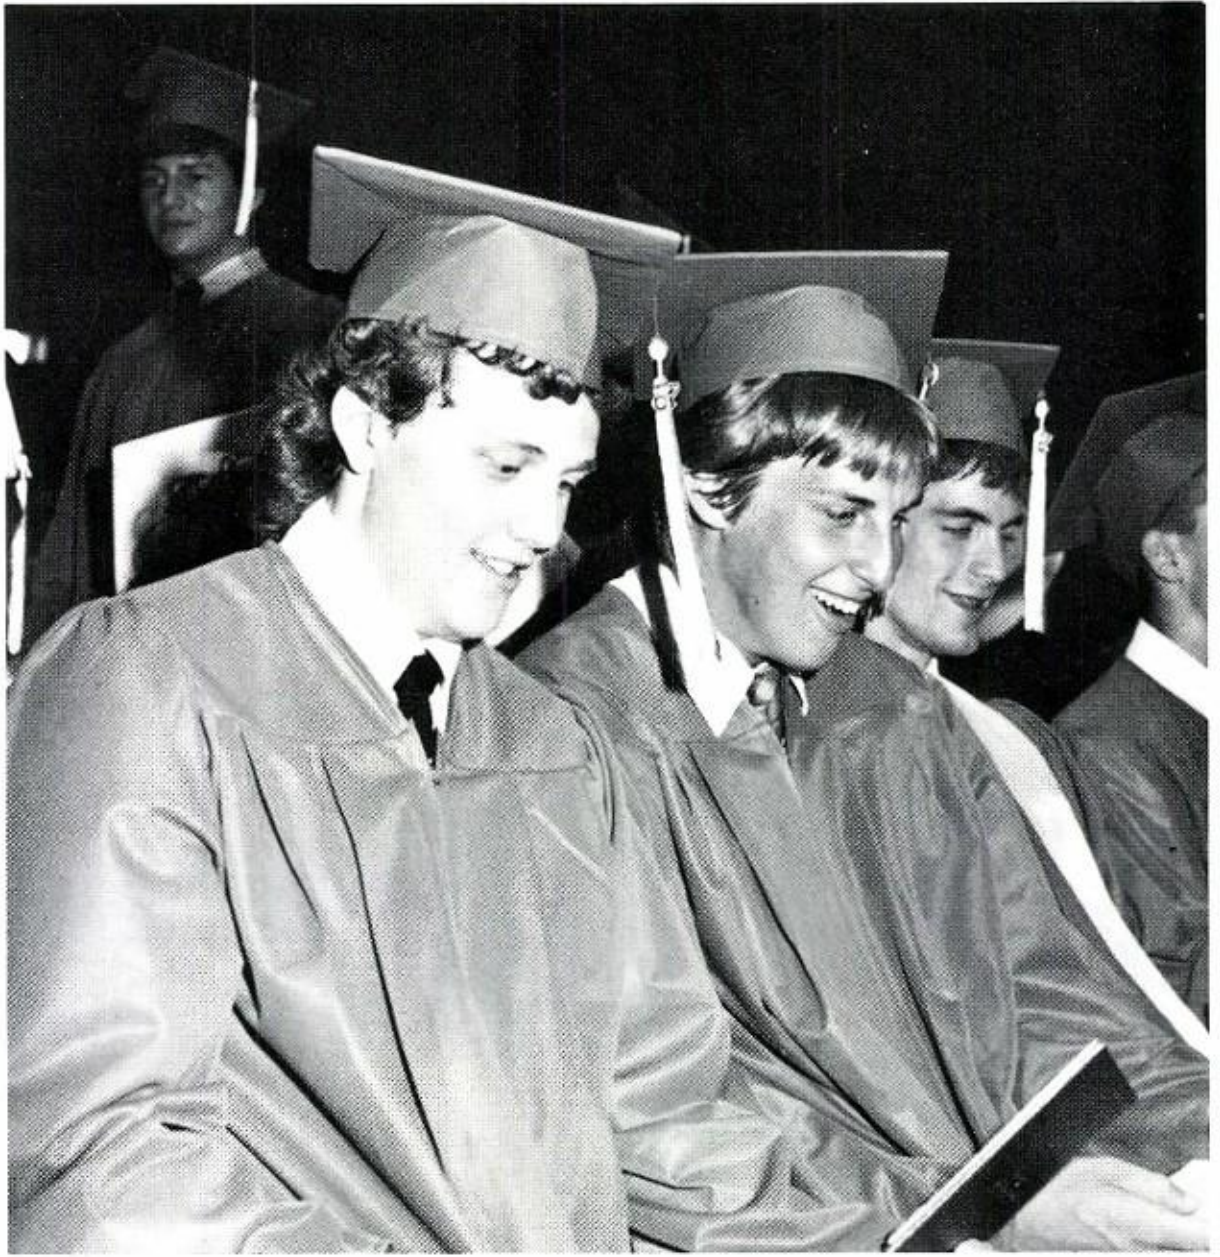

Parting is such sweet sorrow.

Great Scott! He made it!

Cindy Elbe and Elizabeth Elliott see a dream realized.

Believe it Mike and Keith. It's the real thing!

Cash flow and high returns, the realm of bankers and financiers, were also a concern for the Junior class as it worked diligently throughout the year to raise the funds required by 1988 for a super Senior Prom. The projects initiated under the guidance of the hard-working class sponsor, Mrs. Grable Ford, challenged the class members to get involved and to plan ahead. Ongoing activities included providing concessions for the hungry hordes at the Booster Show, drama productions, and driver education classes. The "Candy Store," which was operated for the student body except during lunch, continued to prove that nickels and dimes add up quickly to a large sum.

Supplementing the contributions to the treasury from food sales were a number of other activities. Flower sales, car washes, and ticket sales for the Booster Show, Basil, were promoted by juniors. More daring class members volunteered for the "wet sponge pitch" booth at the Colerain Elementary Spring Carnival.

Junior. The very name denotes someone who is younger and of a lower standing or rank. Yet for juniors who felt caught in the middle, there was always the assurance that in one more year they would be at the top. Getting there, however, would be challenging. Gone was the newness and excitement of the sophomore year, as helping hands reached out to aid students in the transition to a senior high. Still to come was the adventure of the senior year when students, future plans mapped out, anticipated the world beyond and reveled in their higher status. Between the two, juniors were exposed to a barrage of new courses, testing, and the need to set goals and make decisions that would affect their future.

Juniors found increasing demands being made on their time. Heavier course loads competed with greater involvement in extra-curricular activities and, for many, part-time jobs. In their spare time, some took advantage of tutoring sessions for the battery of tests which confront many juniors, including the infamous SAT.

Sweating over research papers, wrestling with time schedules, and praying over test results, the juniors met the challenge. The accomplishments of the class as a whole, as well as individual achievements and awards, symbolized the success of the juniors, while their smiles and shouts of joy as the year drew to a close, signalled their relief that they had made it and were now officially—SENIORS!

Sail On

Colerain Senior High offers more than the traditional academic programs. One such program is SAIL, or Skills For Adult Independent Living. The students are selected on the basis of a group decision which is jointly made by parents, the school psychologist, and teachers.

Concentrating on skills most people take for granted, the students of SAIL learn how to cook, pay bills, manage money, and how to read directions on medication and cleaning products. The teachers help the students to find volunteer and paying jobs. SAIL students may often be found helping out in the cafeteria. Periodically, the SAIL students staff the Good Earth Salad Bar for the faculty.

Making the Grade

Calculus, Honors English, A.P. American History and Government—the Advanced Placement courses offered at Colerain are designed to provide an intellectual challenge for Colerain's brightest and most motivated students. The curriculums are under the guidance of the College Board (geared toward Advanced Placement testing) and are designed to emulate freshman college survey courses. Mrs. Murray's A.P. American History and Ms. Sprunger's Honors English combine lectures and class discussions while encouraging individual interpretations. Miss Rabe requires her Calculus students to discipline themselves into analytical thinking by completing daily homework assignments. Building toward college, the teachers help the students to an early start.
